

GC council approves 1% sales tax

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

The sales tax on all merchandise in Granite City will increase by one percent soon as the result of action taken by the city council Tuesday night finalizing a locally-collected one percent sales tax.

Collection of the tax will begin as soon as tax forms can be printed and distributed and a local mechanism for collecting and enforcing the tax can be established.

The tax was given final passage on a 10-to-4 vote by the council Tuesday night following lengthy discussion on the possible effects such a tax will have on the economy of the city. Local auto dealer Bill Woodrome of Woodrome Oldsmobile flatly told the council that he will move his business out of the city as soon as he can, due to the new tax which will add $100 to $150 to the price of a new car.

A letter from a K-Mart official opposing the tax also was distributed to the aldermen and Woodrome said the K-Mart official had heard rumors that a Wal-Mart was about to build outside of the city limits, within three miles of K-Mart, which could sell products one percent cheaper, since it would not have to collect the tax.

Despite the objections, the aldermen noted that the city is in deep financial straits and already has ruled out a five percent tax on electricity and taxes on taverns, liquor stores, restaurants and motels, leaving few avenues to balance the budget except imposing the city sales tax or raising the property tax.

Actually, the sales tax imposed by the city Tuesday night is a supplemental Retailers' Occupation Tax, to be collected locally. Currently, the state collects a 5% percent Retailers' Occupation Tax on sales of all non-food items and rebates one percent to the city. It also collects 3% percent on food items and rebates one percent to the city.

The city's share of that tax is anticipated at $1,892,275 this fiscal year, according to cash-flow projections prepared by David Nolan, administrative aide to Mayor Paul Schuler. That is after the state retains two percent of the money received as its cost for collecting the tax.

Therefore, a one percent city supplemental Retailers' Occupation Tax on the same items should raise approximately $1.9 million a year and that figure could grow if sales continue to grow in the city, officials predict.

Mayor Paul Schuler has predicted that the tax will raise only about $1.5 million a year and collection in the last half of this fiscal year will bring only about $750,000.

Alderman Paul Ray Bowler, chairman of the council's finance committee, said additional income is badly needed. "You have to look at the needs. We have no money for capital expenditures, repaving streets. The tax would not be a lot if we continue to run this city, to raise salaries, to pave streets. That's the problem you've got as aldermen. You're not going to have a

New zoning bill goes to 1st reading

A new zoning ordinance and map for Granite City, the subject of much discussion and controversy in recent months, was unanimously placed on first reading by the full Granite City Council Tuesday night and will be considered for final adoption at the council's next meeting Tuesday, Oct. 6.

At Tuesday night's meeting, several aldermen had high praise for the revised zoning ordinance, which expands the number of commercial and industrial zoning categories and gives a city zoning administrator who is yet to be named, greater power in enforcing the zoning codes.

The new ordinance also greatly restricts the use of special use permits, which have been used to allow spot commercial zoning along Madison Avenue and in other areas.

A new provision in the zoning update allows "planned unit developments" to be approved as a whole by the city. The category allows developers to lay out entire areas combining industrial, commercial and even individual uses and have the area approved as one unit development, rather than going through numerous zoning changes and set-back variances.

The 85-acre commercial and multi-family development Town & Country Plaza being proposed by Larry Lucas on an eastern extension of St. Clair Avenue between Maryville Road and Mockingbird Lane is an example of the types of developments the planned unit development would allow and Lucas' plat is likely to be the first granted such approval if the new zoning ordinance is given final passage Oct. 6.

Realtors have objected at several public hearings that the new zoning ordinance fails to address the "patchwork" pattern of residential and commercial property along Madison Avenue and parts of Pontoon and Johnson roads. They contend that a modern zoning plan should zone these areas commercial, which would avoid a time-consuming and costly zoning establishment wishes to locate on one of those busy streets.

A house-to-house survey now is being taken by the realtors' Plan Commission Member Ed Reinagle along Madison Avenue between 24th Street and Nameoki Road to determine whether the majority of those owning residential property on Madison Avenue would prefer the area to be zoned residential or commercial.

Also being surveyed are Johnson Road from Terrace Lane to Edgewood Avenue and Pontoon Road from Franklin Avenue to Maryville Road. Results of that survey are expected to be presented to the council at the next meeting, realtors said.

The realtors have succeeded in having one major change incorporated in the new ordinance. Under the old ordinance, if any commercial structure in a residential neighborhood was

Suits threatened to force residents to tap into new county sewer lines

By GARY SCHNEIDER

of the Press-Record

The squeaky wheel gets the grease and he who yells the loudest and longest may get a lawsuit. That was the essence of comments made by Assistant Madison County State's Attorney Marshall "Zeke" Smith in Granite City Monday afternoon.

Smith warned that residents of the special sewer area whose property line is within 200 feet of the new county sewers must have their home sewers connected to the county sewers by Nov. 15 or risk being sued by the county. However, since it is anticipated there will be more homes in violation Nov. 15 than the county could easily sue, Smith said he plans to pick out a representative number of violators and sue them.

"I want to pick somebody loud, mean and who waves the flag and that's who I'll get. I'd rather get somebody who is stirring it up and teach him a lesson," the outspoken assistant state's attorney said.

"I really don't want to sue them all, but I will pick one of 10 or so, and make an example of them and hope the others will come running in for their permits," he said. The sewer ordinance provides for a fine of up to $500 for homes not on the sewer by Nov. 15.

"There won't be any mercy. We have to do that. I have been as poor as anybody in the district," Smith related, saying he sympathizes with those who have found hooking up to the new sewer's financial hardship, but he said grants from the township have been available for a long time to help them pay all or a portion of the costs and all should be able to tap on by Nov. 15.

Smith's comments were made during the regular meeting of the sewers and drainage committee of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce Monday afternoon. Despite disagreement from some of those present, Smith called the current sewage treatment rate paid by those on the new sewers ($18.80 per month for households) "low," and said, "The only thing that is going to save this low rate is to get more people in there (the sewer district)."

Smith said the district's operating fund is in a severe crisis because not enough homes have tapped onto the new sewers and the revenue from user fees is not as high as anticipated. "We need 2,000 more people (homes)," Smith said, noting that 2,291 homes were on the sewer early in September and budget figures project 3,700 on the line by Jan. 1.

Part of the problem, Smith said, is that approximately 1,000 families are served by private sewer systems, including 600 in the Gaslight Walk Apartments alone, and those people will not be paying user fees to the county until the private sewer systems are tapped into the new county sewers.

Speaking of the 1,000 families served by private sewer and lagoon systems, Smith stated, "That many is critically important to us."

He said the sewer district is "going to the EPA, to put the muscle on those owners, Jim Green and a partner. I believe, to force them to tap on." He said the owners are going to have to bear the costs of infiltration studies on the private sewers to assure that they meet the county's standards before being allowed to hook onto the county lines.

He estimated that for Gaslight Walk, it will cost $150,000 to do the infiltration study and for the Meadow Lane sewers, it could cost $300,000 to bring the sewers into compliance. Smith said also will be involved in upgrading the Quint Valley sewers in Pontoon Beach before they can join the county sewers. The county has waived the $25 per residence tap-on fee there, but each home may be

A STERN WARNING that a one percent city sales tax will force all auto dealerships to move out of Granite City was issued by Bill Woodrome, standing, president of Woodrome Oldsmobile, during Tuesday night's city council meeting. The aldermen listened attentively, but then voted 10 to 4 in favor of imposing the tax, which will add between $100 and $150 to the price of most new cars. The tax also applies to anything which currently is subject to the state sales tax, including food.

Echols criticizes GC Journal

By MICK STRANGE
of the Press-Record

The Granite City Journal, a local free advertising paper, drew fire at the Venice City Council meeting Tuesday night.

In addressing an independent distributor for the Journal, Venice Mayor Tyrone Echols said, "Those papers are blocking our sewers, littering the streets and doing a disservice for any businessman that advertises in them."

"I feel that when a business firm pays for advertisements in a newspaper, he expects people to see his ad. How can they see it? How can they when they are thrown around in piles?"

"The Journal also is doing a disservice to households, laying flat here and there in piles."

"This past Sunday morning I saw arms full of Journals, in piles of 10 to 20 papers, on Circle Drive near the Lee Wright Homes."

"In the past we (city council) begged the Journal to cease and desist in throwing their paper around like they do."

"I guess we are going to consider other action," Echols said.

The discussion arose when a Granite City Journal independent delivery man, who lives in Venice, complained about the condition of a house next to his.

The delivery man told the mayor and council that the people who live "there" (Lee Wright Homes) resent them and that he was trying to get the GC Journal delivery stopped in that area of Venice.

The Venice City Council has been involved in a city "clean up" campaign for some time, in which officials are urging citizen cooperation in keeping yards and alleys clean, weeds and grass cut, and trash in general picked up from the city streets, alleys and gutters.

Alderman Hank A. Szevia has previously complained about the free paper and plastic wrappers cluttering the streets and contributing to city sewer problems.

The council approved a tentative McKinley Bridge operating budget for 1981-82 year of $618,659, which is only a $275 increase over the 1980-81 budget of $618,084.

Bridge employees are still receiving about a six percent salary raise, which is made possible, according to Thomas Fields, bridge manager, by a decrease in insurance cost of $100,000.

Sasyk backs home rule as 'improvement'

By MICK STRANGE

of the Press-Record

The City of Madison operates under state laws passed in the 1870s when problems were rural in the State of Illinois, according to Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk, who, with the city council, is asking the citizens in Madison to vote for Home Rule, which will be on the Nov. 3 ballot.

All cities in Illinois with a population of over 25,000 are automatically Home Rule cities if they choose.

Cities under 25,000 are under state control unless, by vote of the citizens, want Home Rule.

Sasyk noted that the laws governing Madison are passed in Springfield by the state legislature, which is dominated, according to Sasyk, by Cook County (Chicago) interests.

"There are over 100 legislators and they are not interested in what happens in Madison, or the future of our city. They are interested in what benefits Chicago and northern Illinois, and that is a fact that everyone knows."

"Home Rule means more local control, not Springfield control. At least the citizens will know where the blame lies if the city administration goes

"How can a Madison citizen now pick up a phone and get the state legislature to listen to them."

"Here in Madison, at least, if you don't like something, everyone knows how to get in touch with their alderman, or the mayor, or the police chief."

"I would like to see those against Home Rule document their objections, rather than spreading half truths, and trying to say we are trying to take advantage of the senior citizens and low income people."

TAKING THE OFFENSIVE

Armed with propane cannons in foreground, shotguns and flare guns, city employees begin the task Tuesday night of scaring away flocks of roosting starlings west of Nameoki Road primarily on East 27th and 28th streets. Edward Schulze, traffic engineer, center with flare gun, shoots a whistling rocket skyward in the 2600 block of E. 27th Street. At right is City Engineer Monroe Brewer. The noisy operation is to continue through tonight in an attempt to scare the numerous birds out of the city. Neighborhood children were attracted by the operation.

Anti-crime provisions in new legislation

Governor James R. Thompson has signed legislation that imposes a two- to five-year prison sentence for persons who force others to join organizations through the use or threat of violence.

"Street gangs present one of the most troublesome problems for our society," the governor said. "They get many of their members by threatening youths or their families with harm if the youngsters don't join in the gang's criminal activity."

House Bill 1421 also contains other anti-crime provisions, including one that allows the age of a victim or physical impairment to be taken into account in sentencing.

When the defendant is convicted of a felony against someone younger than 12 years old or older than 59 or who is physically handicapped, the court may impose an extended prison sentence—if the defendant is at least 17 years old at the time of the crime.

The measure also requires that the Departments of Mental Health and Rehabilitation Services give notice to the sheriff in the county from which the defendant was admitted prior to the release of the defendant by the state agencies. Law enforcement officials also would be notified if they had requested the notification.

In addition, the bill requires the Department of Corrections to notify the sheriff or local law enforcement authorities of the release of a Class X prisoner if it has been requested.

Another portion of the bill allows persons to go onto unoccupied and abandoned residential and industrial property within a municipality to beautify it without fear of criminal trespass charges.

DRIVER IS ARRESTED

Lonnie Bailey, 21, of 3801 Lake Drive, Lot 362, Ponton Beach, was charged with driving while intoxicated after his auto went straight at the "Y" intersection of Mitchell Road and Wanda Road in Mitchell, hit a street sign, continued into the yard of Edith Binger and then struck a utility pole at 5:20 a.m. Saturday. Bailey said he was not injured. He was released on cash bond.

Second fire destroys house

Granite City firefighters were on the scene for two hours early Sunday as a previously burned-out house in the 4200 block of Old Alton Road burned to the ground.

Due to the earlier fire, it has been impossible to determine the point or origin or cause of Sunday's fire, according to George Smolich, assistant fire chief.

A Granite City patrolman noticed the flames at 5:55 a.m. Sunday and called for the fire department. Since the building had little value after the first fire, the firemen primarily were on standby as the structure burned Sunday morning, Smolich said. There were no unusual circumstances or evidence of foul play leading to the fire in the one-story frame structure, but the cause is officially listed as undetermined, he added.

Schools adopt new policy for free milk, meals or reduced meal costs

Quad-City public and parochial schools operating cafeterias and maintaining lunch and milk programs have adopted new policies for free milk or free meals, or reduced price meals, for children unable to pay the full price of meals and milk served under the National School Lunch, School Breakfast and Special Milk programs.

The new guidelines have been adopted by Granite City School District 9, Madison School District 12, Venice School District 3, Sacred Heart-St. Joseph, St. Margaret Mary, St. Elizabeth and St. Mary schools.

Local school officials have adopted the following family size and income criteria for determining eligibility:

Family of one, family income for free meals and free milk, $5,600; family income for reduced price meals, $7,970; family of two, $7,400 and $10,530; three, $9,190 and $13,000; four, $10,980 and $15,630; five, $12,780 and $18,190; six, $14,570 and $20,740; seven, $16,370 and $23,290; eight, $18,160 and $25,840; for each additional family member add $1,700 and $2,550.

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free or reduced price meals or free milk when served.

Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in the school. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility.

Applications may be submitted at any time during the year. To discourage the possibility of misrepresentation, the application forms contain a statement above the space for signature certifying that all information furnished in the application is being made in connection with the receipt of federal funds, that school officials may, for cause, verify the information in the application, and that deliberate misrepresentation of any information may subject the applicant to prosecution under applicable state and criminal statutes.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for free or reduced price meals for them, the family should contact the school. If a family member becomes unemployed or if a family size changes, the family should contact the school to file a new application.

Under the provisions of the policy, principals will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official he or she may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis.

If he or she wishes to make a formal appeal, he or she may make a request either orally or in writing to school officials for a hearing to appeal the decision. The policy contains an outline of the procedure.

All children are treated the same regardless of ability to pay. In the operation of child nutrition programs, no child will be discriminated against because of his or her race, sex, color, or national origin. The school officials have a copy of the complete policy, which may be reviewed by any interested party.

40 at Venice
AARP potluck

Venice AARP Chapter 2865 hosted its annual picnic during the weekend at the Venice Recreation Center on Broadway. More than 40 members attended.

Due to the cooler weather, the event was held indoors. A fried chicken dinner and covered dish food items were served at 12 noon and the afternoon hours were spent at games, according to Mrs. Nina Payne, chapter secretary.

Mrs. Willye Mae Lowery, president, announced the next meeting will take place Oct. 11.

The senior group convenes on the second Friday of each month at the Venice Recreation Center.

BAC SUED ON REPAIR OF ELECTRICAL UNIT

Rockers Electric is suing Belleville Area College, seeking payment for emergency repairs made to the boilerhouse following an explosion in transformers last January. The Illinois Building Authority, which owns the building, and not BAC, is responsible for payment of the bill, BAC Attorney Norman Nold asserts.

"The Authority has refused payment because it found the explosion was the result of work by an electrical firm. They sued us because it's a slow process to sue the state," Nold says.

Paul Crake was installed last week as the new president of the Granite City Optimist Club.

G. H. Sternberg, past president of Optimist International, and a past president of the local club, was the installing officer.

Other officers installed were Earl Buehner and Mark Fredrick, both vice-presidents, and William Monical, secretary.

ASSOCIATE DEGREES TO THREE RESIDENTS

Thomas G. Muhl, Gregory D. Vaughn and Karen A. Galayda, all of Granite City, are among 115 summer graduates of Belleville Area College.

Muhl, 3313 Maryville Road, received an associate of science degree. Associate of applied science degrees were awarded to Vaughn, 3133 Aubrey Ave., and Karen Galayda, 3157 Carlson Ave.

Apartment application
not rejected—Morgan

An application for the rental of a Kirkpatrick Home apartment by Lowell Kyle, who now lives at 2436 East 24th St., is being processed under regular procedure of the Granite City Housing Authority and has not been rejected, David Morgan, director of the housing authority, said Wednesday.

Kyle, whose wife Patricia has a 2-month-old baby, complained Tuesday that their application for an apartment had been rejected by the housing authority on grounds that his wife is only 19 years old.

According to Kyle, the application was rejected by Dorothy King who is in charge of housing rentals. "She just told us that my wife was not 21 and we couldn't qualify for an apartment," Kyle said.

He was accompanied by David Greenhouse, a former custodian at Kirkpatrick Homes for nine years, who said that he had seen many persons living at the apartment complex who were younger than Mrs. Kyle.

Morgan said he had received threats from a woman "who said that about 25 pickets are planning to rally out here (at the housing office at Kirkpatrick Homes) in protest of our actions."

He added that the application was filed only Monday and that it was not rejected, but temporarily held in abeyance until the required information can be obtained from Public Aid sources.

"We haven't done anything with it yet and can not do anything until we confirm such things as the source of their income, how much aid they are receiving and other information that goes into determining what their rent would be," Morgan said.

Kyle said he is a security guard on lay-off from Wells Fargo Co. He was laid off last February, he said, and the family now receives Aid to Dependent Children assistance.

Forty members and wives attended the dinner meeting at Charlie's restaurant.

Crake said that his goal as president was membership growth within the club, and to continue helping youth.

Crake is the manager of Schermer's Men's Shop, No. 10 Crossroads Plaza, where he has been employed for the past 16 years.

Crake has been an active member of the local GC Optimist Club for the past five years, and is a former vice-president of the club.

Charge woman in robbery

Belinda M. Wright, 18, of 26 Garesche Homes, Madison, and Lewis Cagle, 23, East St. Louis, have been charged in connection with the robbery of an elderly Granite City woman on the parking lot of National Food Store at 11:15 a.m. Monday.

The victim said she was loading groceries into her car when a woman approached and asked for directions to Champaign, Ill. When the victim said she could not help, the woman grabbed the victim's purse and pulled hard, almost pulling the victim to the ground.

The female robber then ran to a dark colored vehicle driven by a man and they left south on Nameoki Road.

A description of the car and its occupants was broadcast on the Illinois State Police Radio Network (ISPERN) to all area police departments and an officer of the state police Department of Criminal Investigation, who was in the area, saw the car at the stoplight on Nameoki Road in front of Kirkpatrick Homes and drove beside the auto.

The DCI agent said he showed his badge and identified himself as a police officer, but the suspects' car drove away. He chased the vehicle to East 24th Street, near Rodier's Restaurant, where the driver of the suspects' auto lost control and struck a utility pole.

The two occupants fled on foot toward Anchorage

Homes. The agent chased them through yards in the 2800 block of Edwards Street and the woman was caught in the rear of a yard in that block. She was carrying the purse she allegedly stole.

Police searched the area and found a man hiding in the brush. Both were handcuffed and arrested. The car was towed to a police holding area until the ownership can be determined.

Belinda Wright was charged with robbery and her bond was set at $75,000. Cagle was charged with disorderly conduct and appeared before Associate Judge Thomas Hildebrand at 6 p.m. Tuesday to enter a guilty plea. He was sentenced to serve 21 days in the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville.

Pleads innocent to driving charge

Leo J. Furtak Jr., 32, of 2541 Morrison Road, appeared before Associate Judge Thomas Hildebrand at 7 p.m. Monday and pleaded innocent to driving while intoxicated. His bond was set at $10,000 and he was returned to the Granite City Jail.

Furtak allegedly was found asleep in his car at Johnson Road and Carlson Avenue at 2:30 a.m. Monday and was ordered to take a taxi cab home, because he appeared intoxicated, officers alleged.

He was warned that if he was caught driving that night, he would be arrested, the officer added.

After the taxi cab and Furtak left the scene, the policeman watched Furtak's car and alleged that within five minutes, the taxi cab returned, Furtak got out, got in his car and drove away. The auto was stopped and Furtak was jailed.

The Upper Mississippi River Basin Commission will recommend that Congress immediately authorize the engineering, design and construction of a second lock chamber, 600 feet in length, at the Alton lock and dam replacement project. A resolution introduced in Congress would name the facility the Melvin Price Locks and Dam in honor of the local congressman.

Autumn began at 9:05 p.m. Tuesday, ending the wettest summer since 1949 and the eighth wettest since the keeping of weather records began in this metropolitan area in 1857.

The staff of the St. Louis district, Army Corps of Engineers, will be reduced by 46 in the federal fiscal year that begins in October. This reduction is in addition to 37 positions eliminated by attrition this year (4.5 percent of the 810 jobs authorized as of October 1980).

Only 60 percent of the Illinois corn crop is mature compared with 95 percent a year ago and an average of 86 percent at this time of year due to heavy rains and mild temperatures. If the unseasonable trend continues, farms face the risk of damage from a killing frost. But the yield outlook, otherwise, is fine; about 93 percent of the crop has reached the dent stage. Of the 1981 corn, 29 percent is in excellent condition, 46 percent good and 5 percent fair.

The five major U.S. bus management firms are interested in contracting with the Bi-State Development Agency to run the transit system in this region. The City of St. Louis is moving to free $13 million in sales tax to Bi-State. Bi-State's resigned transit manager, William Wilson, may head the Board of Public Service for the City of St. Louis; the board is the city's chief contracting authority and issues various types of permits.

Gov. James R. Thompson asked other members of the National Governors' Association executive committee with Pres. Ronald Reagan today to discuss federal budget cuts, block grant programs and their effect on state government. The president is to address the nation at a tonight on economic issues.

A man who signed himself as "The Fox" used a chain and padlock to close gates to the 44th Summer Co. near Kodak 14 and 35 and to call attention to its "signs on trees" and "destruction of our natural beauty." There are signs on highways telling how to reach the lumber yard. A man calling himself "The Fox" was active in the Bellvue area, the Chicago area a decade ago.

Driver arrested and fined $750

George Tremain, 3230 Kilarney Drive, was charged with driving while intoxicated and illegal transportation of alcohol after his car nearly struck a Granite City police patrol car, it is alleged, on Alexander Avenue near East 23rd Street at 2:35 p.m. Monday.

Patrolman Bill Curtis said he was driving north on Alexander when the other auto turned from East 23rd Street and came south in the wrong lane, driving directly at the patrol car. Curtis turned into an alley to avoid a collision, he said. Tremain's auto stalled and he was arrested as he attempted to restart the engine. Curtis contended it was alleged that Tremain needed help to stand and a point of view was found in the front yard.

He was ruled and appeared at 2 p.m. Monday before Judge Delia J. Thomas. Tremain pleaded guilty and was fined $750 and ordered to serve one year under court supervision.

Approve variances

The Granite City Council has given its approval to two zoning variances to allow residents to construct a garage and a carport closer to the side property lines of their homes than called for in the city's zoning code.

The approvals were given on the recommendation of the city's Board of Appeals, which studied the requests Sept. 9. Four board members attended the Board of Appeals hearing and there were no objections to any of the requests.

Permission was granted to Kenneth Anderson, 2808 Indiana Ave., to construct an addition to his garage, coming within two feet of his side property line.

Also approved was a request by Dana Compton, 2100 Wilson Ave., to construct a carport within five feet from the side property line.

Miss Robin Barker, 25, of 2033 Park Ave. was arrested for battery last week at Tri-Mor Bowl. Her mother, Mrs. Lola Barker of the 2033 Park address, suffered right arm cuts inflicted by a crushed beer can.

2 held in burglary case

Alert police work by Granite City Patrolman David Anderson is being credited for the arrests of two young men who allegedly burglarized the home of Jeff Parker, 2338 Spalding Ave., at 6:15 a.m. Saturday.

Anderson responded to a call of two young men acting in a suspicious manner and walking between houses in that block. He located the two and questioned them about their activities.

Since there was no proof of wrongdoing, Anderson took their names and told them they were free to go. However, Anderson followed their car and noticed some hanging plants in the back of the car. He stopped the car at Maryville and Pontoon roads and questioned the two about the ownership of the plants.

When he received no answer, he asked for permission to open the car's trunk and called for other policemen to help him search the car. In the trunk, officers found a chainsaw and other items. The two in the car would not say where they got the items, so they were held for investigation. Patrolman Anderson returned to the 2300 block of Spalding Avenue and discovered the garage door at Parker's home was open.

He asked Parker about it and Parker said the garage had been closed. He checked and found that his chainsaw had been taken. The description of the saw matched the one police found inside the auto of the two young men.

Their names were not released, pending the approval of formal charges by the Madison County state's attorney's office. In custody are an 18-year-old Rodger Avenue man and a 19-year-old Pontoon Road resident, officers said.

Motorist hurt on Nameoki Road

Mrs. Margaret M. Utz, 65, of 2258 Edison Ave., sustained an injury last week when her auto, halted for traffic in the 2400 block of Nameoki Road, was struck by another vehicle, operated by Vigil S. Tindal Jr., 20, of 2501 Lincoln Ave. Mrs. Utz was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where she was examined and had X-rays made before being released.

Thefts from cars in apartment area

One car was stolen and items were stolen from the trunks of three other autos in the Harvey Place Apartments between 1 and 10:25 a.m. Sunday, leading police to place a close watch on the apartment complex. The watch resulted in two arrests Sunday night.

The first report of problems in the apartments came when John Halwachs, 2723 Harvey Place, Apt. 2, discovered that his blue four-door 1966 Ford Falcon had been stolen from his garage.

A short time later, reports of trunk locks being punched and thefts from trunks began. John Wieman, Apt. 47 in the same building, noted a set of jumper cables had been stolen from his trunk. Muriel Veith, Apt. 58, discovered that her spare tire was gone and Edward Hawk, Apt. 53, noticed that his trunk lock had been punched, but he was unable to open the damaged lock to determine whether anything had been taken from the trunk.

At 11:25 p.m. Sunday, officers were told of a suspicious auto cruising around the apartments. Officers responded and found the auto in a parking garage at the north end of the apartment complex. Two boys, ages 15 and 16, were charged with curfew violations and two girls, 17 and 19, were released without being charged. Officers noted that the 16-year-old boy taken into custody was already on probation and said his probation officer will be notified of the arrest.

RETIRE JUDGES AT 75

House Bill 270, signed last week, extends the mandatory retirement age for state judges from 70 to 75. The measure, sponsored by Rep. John Beatty and Sen. Arthur Berman, both of Chicago, applies to all supreme court, appellate, circuit and associate judges.

Stolen auto is located

An auto stolen in Maplewood, Mo., and subsequently repainted from green to dark blue, was located in the 2400 block of Lynch Avenue at 3:30 a.m. Sunday and police are attempting to determine whether tools and other items in the car also are stolen property.

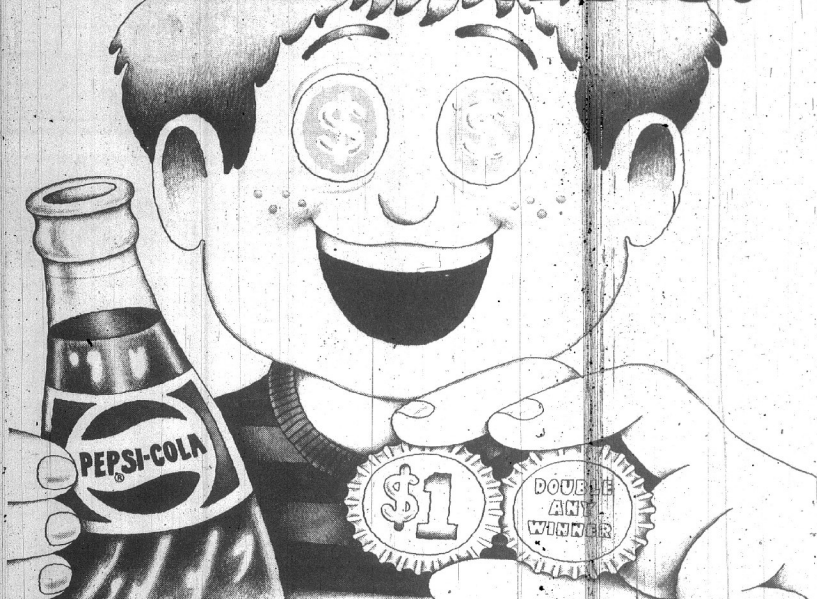

A computer check on the auto showed that it was stolen and was supposed to be green. To be certain it was the same auto, police requested serial numbers on the car, which were given by Missouri authorities. The lengthy serial numbers matched those on the car, except for two transposed numbers, officers said.

The auto was towed to a police holding area and the owner was notified that it had been recovered. When the owner claims the car, police plan to ask for permission to open the trunk to determine if other items are inside.

Suspect of assault is released on bond

Gregory C. Youngblood, 30, St. Louis, was released on $306 cash bond at 7 p.m. Monday after pleading innocent to charges of disorderly conduct, battery and assault. Associate Judge Thomas J. Debrand set the bond.

$4,000 fire loss at home

Fire caused $4,000 damage at 12:45 a.m. Wednesday at a residence at 2248a Grand Ave. The owner is Otto Suhre and the upstairs area is occupied by Lonnie Oliver.

The blaze was attributed to a mattress.

The loss totaled $2,000 to the building and $2,000 to the contents, Granite City firemen estimated.

At 6:50 p.m. Tuesday, an electrical short-circuit in a refrigerator at the Shirley Starr residence, 2724 Birch Ave., caused $300 fire damage to the refrigerator.

It is alleged that Youngblood followed a 22-year-old Lexington, Ill., woman on the sidewalk along Madison Avenue near Granite City High School South at 6:30 a.m. Sunday and pushed her into some bushes where he struggled with her.

She broke free and waved the car of a passing Granite City policeman to a stop on Madison Avenue. The officer took Youngblood into custody nearby.

Grand jury troubled over results of investigation

By MARK RESMANN
The Madison County Grand Jury says it is "deeply troubled" by what it found in an investigation of the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services.

The investigation, called for by Madison County State's Attorney Don Weber, was conducted in light of several cases of child abuse Weber felt were mishandled by DCFS. The grand jury issued its report on the investigation last week.

In its report, the grand jury said it had found instances where DCFS employees were careless and negligent in their duties and where the well-being of the minors had been sacrificed or not adequately protected.

The report cited several actual cases in which the grand jury felt the DCFS acted improperly. In one instance, a 12-year-old girl, sexually abused by her stepfather, was found to be neglected and placed in the guardianship of DCFS. While charges against the stepfather were pending, the department allowed the girl to remain in the custody of her mother. The state's attorney's office later received information that the girl was being coerced by her mother to change her testimony against her stepfather.

The state's attorney's office informed DCFS of the actions, but the department refused to remove the child from her home. The mother was indicted by the grand jury for communicating with a witness, and the child was temporarily removed from the mother's custody.

The grand jury's report also said because of the DCFS's practice of filling its positions on a seniority basis, many times unqualified people are given jobs. The report called the department a "bureaucratic nightmare."

"Department actions, all too often, seem directed toward maintaining the department's existence, rather than providing services to those children who need them," the report said in its conclusions.

The grand jury gave a list of 15 recommendations, ranging from reducing department bureaucracy to passing a law which would make it a criminal offense for a DCFS employee to fail to notify the appropriate state's attorney of indicated cases of sexual or physical abuse.

The grand jury said it felt very strongly that it would be necessary for the Madison County State's Attorney to make periodic and regular reports of the DCFS's performance to future grand juries.

Greenhouse being planned at BAC

Belleville Area College has accepted a proposal for a solar greenhouse.

The triangular structure, which will be adjacent to existing greenhouses and will face south, will be built by youths — paid with CETA (Comprehensive Employment Training Act) funds — under the supervision of AFL-CIO workers at no cost to the college.

BAC will be responsible for maintaining the greenhouse, which is expected to be valued at about $35,000.

Maintenance should be minimal for at least the next 20 years, according to Dr. Robert Eskridge, dean of career programs at BAC.

The project is one of two solar greenhouses planned for this region. The other will be constructed in East St. Louis, Dr. Eskridge said.

New law permits mental health facilities to report suspected crimes

Governor James R. Thompson has announced he has signed legislation clarifying the Mental Health and Developmental Disabilities Confidentiality Act, clearing the way for facility directors to report suspected violations of criminal law or other serious incidents.

Under current law, information relating to residents of mental health and developmental disabilities facilities and programs is confidential. Senate Bill 910 amends that provision, saying that a facility director may not be prohibited from reporting possible criminal violations.

"For too long improper and intolerable actions in these facilities have hidden behind the Confidentiality Act," Names of victims and other valuable information have been cloaked behind a law that has hampered thorough investigation," Thompson said.

"What this bill does is enable the proper authorities to make a complete investigation with all the information they need."

The bill, which is effective immediately, was sponsored by Senator Adeline Geor-Karis of Zion, and Representative Glen Bower of Effingham.

The governor also signed a bill that clarifies the definition of sexual abuse, establishes a disorderly conduct penalty for persons who knowingly give false reports to the Department of Children and Family Services (DCFS), and allows physicians taking temporary custody to give medical treatment as well as granting the doctor immunity from liability.

The bill also outlines conditions for a child's release from a shelter facility and established procedures to deal with harassment, abuse and neglect calls to DCFS. The measure includes day care reimbursement procedures for child care services and public funding of licensed day care centers.

Bus patronage raid' thwarted by area officials

By BILL WINTER of the Press-Record

What many Illinoisans viewed as the "political patronage raid" of the metropolitan area transit system was thwarted last week by State Sen. Sam Vadalabene, Congressman Melvin Price, some of the Bi-State Development Agency commissioners and a number of Madison and St. Clair counties officials who declined to abide by the St. Louis mayor's wishes.

Mayor Vincent Schoemehl retreated Thursday evening from his announced plan to have a new St. Louis County-dominated district take over bus operations from the Bi-State Agency.

The mayor continued his attack on Bi-State Thursday night and Friday morning, and said he would withhold sales taxes unless the agency fired Executive Director Charles G. Houghton III and other managerial employees.

Instead, Houghton and Transit Manager William J. Wilson, who had held their jobs since Aug. 1, 1979, resigned Sunday and former St. Louis Mayor John Poelker was named interim executive director.

Poelker, about whom all the parties voiced confidence, was the key element of the compromise.

Mayor from 1973 to 1977, Poelker in recent years had been a vice-president on the administrative staff of the Regional Commerce and Growth Association.

He was a Federal Bureau of Investigation agent before serving as St. Louis assessor from 1953 to 1957, and as city comptroller from 1957 to 1973, when he defeated Mayor A. J. Cervantes to be the city's highest elective post.

Illinois commissioners had indicated they were willing to fire Houghton if the Missouri commissioners agreed to also discharge Wilson. Missourians on the Bi-State board generally supported Wilson.

"The central figure in the alleged 'patronage raid' plan," as many of the officials saw it, was Wilson.

"Formerly St. Louis city comptroller of streets and allied for many years with the city's Slay family and its riverfront and trucking interests, Wilson is seen as a close associate of Mayor Schoemehl and of Congressman William J. Wilson. The mayor said he favored Wilson to manage the new bus district that was proposed this month, and he wanted Wilson to run Bi-State if the commissioners accepted Schoemehl's fire-75 terms.

The Bi-State board had been trying to trim its administrative staff as an economy measure but had failed to agree on a specific list of those to be discharged.

In the background was a 10-year struggle between Houghton, the top administrator, and Wilson, who reported directly to the board on some of the transit matters.

Their rival discharge lists apparently were aimed at weakening the rivalry with other friends on the administrative staff.

Houghton at one time wanted to contain the scope of the bus manager's authority, limiting it to immediate bus routing, operating and maintenance decisions. Wilson said that, to do his job well, he had to be able to make personnel and financial recommendations as well.

A longtime critic of the caliber of Bi-State's efficiency and economy, St. Louis County Executive Gene McNary supported the now-withdrawn bus system takeover plan.

One concept publicized last week called for a board of three St. Louis County residents, two St. Louisans and one Illinoisan, to some extent reflecting the distribution of population, subsidy sources and farebox revenue.

Another version was four, two and two, with the biggest group coming from St. Louis County.

Chairman Nelson Hagman told the Madison County Board Sept. 15 that the six-member transit board proposal "is not what has been discussed and it's not what was told to me."

"I can assure you we aren't going to be left out of this. We are entitled to more than we have been offered," William Haine, chairman of the Madison County Transit District and a member of the County Board, said the original Schoemehl plan "is simple. It means that we lose and they win. We won't even have a referendum. We have now, and we've been fighting for eight months to get some amount of control" over bus service needs in the county.

Haine added, "We currently have five commissioners from Illinois (on the ten-member Bi-State Agency board) and they want to cut us down to one."

"What they are trying to do is create another Bi-State in a different form. They want to wipe out everything we have worked for. They're trying to sell us on less representation in a new Bi-State."

The Illinois commissioners are going to vote against this proposal," Poelker said. County ordinance prevents the county from releasing its share of sales taxes to Bi-State until the Illinois board and makes its payments, and those have been halted since July 1.

The yearly tax subsidies total about $27 million from the county, $13 million from St. Louis and $9 million from the city of St. Louis, the metropolitan area.

Mayor Schoemehl said Thursday evening the firings he outlined would be "strings attached" to an aldermanic bill releasing transit funds to Bi-State.

Without the city and county subsidies, Bi-State expected to run out of funds by the end of 1981, and forcing it to halt bus service in Missouri.

Illinois officials said they would help finance Bi-State, and Houghton promised the County Board that bus service would continue in Illinois.

Mayor Schoemehl's decision to link the subsidy with the administrative staff reduction would have come from several Bi-State officials.

Bi-State Board Chairman James S. Nations said Thursday night, "It's almost as if Schoemehl is trying to drive Bi-State from the back of the bus. It's not acceptable to me. It's a blatant power grab."

Michael Aubuchon, a Missouri commissioner of Bi-State, said, "I don't feel bargaining such as this is proper. It would interfere with operation of the bus system. The mayor can withhold funds, but he cannot tell us how to operate."

Carl E. Mathias of the Bi-State board said he would oppose making decisions on the basis of threats.

Mayor Schoemehl described his "take it or leave it" stance as involving a permanent loss of city funds for buses. Other officials speculated that this would create a "heat" from the public and that the city would have to relent.

The mayor asserted Thursday night, "There will be no position for Houghton. He's gone."

"Wilson probably will be the chief guy in charge" of Bi-State, Schoemehl forecast that night, less than 24 hours before he asked Wilson to resign from Bi-State.

Wilson said Thursday night, "I really don't want Houghton's job. I just want to keep the bus system running. We are in a 'survival mode' right now. If we don't cut this year to cut costs, we've lost the battle."

"Drastic short-term action is needed. For the long term, it may take at least three years to get more state funds or sales taxes."

"Our board rejects the city's offer, that would put us 'out of business' next month," Wilson said.

Schoemehl commented, "We're settling the problem for the immediate term. It's a victory, but not total. The city will not let it by and let them waste money and remain in a paralyzed state."

"The Bi-State board could not resolve its management problem, so I'm resolving it for them."

"They needed to get rid of one of those guys, and they needed to cut some management jobs. I made the decision for them."

"It's a serious problem. I don't know if this will solve it or not, but it will force some decisions."

"Illinois controls the bus system because they have five votes over there, but they contribute only 18 percent of the money. They won't give up control, even when the stability of the system is at stake. Our plan at least has been guaranteed that the bus system wouldn't go bankrupt through 1985."

"I blame the collapse of negotiations on them (Illinoisans). If the bus system fails, it's going to be their fault."

If Bi-State ignores firing Houghton and the others after the money is transferred, the city comptroller would decide if they are misappropriating money. That's what it would be in my estimation, and I would expect him to hold up the payments."

Schoemehl, displaying fast footwork, altered his position on Friday afternoon.

He conferred with Nations who is a resident of St. Louis, and Mathias. Later, the mayor met with Wilson to let him know that the board wanted this country included in any action ousting Houghton.

Wilson said he would quit if Houghton also resigned, or was dismissed. Wilson asserted, "The issue is not me; it's the survival of the system. I've been beaten and battered, but I care about this town."

At the dinner hour Friday, Schoemehl and McNary met with three Illinois commissioners (Nations, Mathias, and Jerry Schrimpf), two Missouri commissioners (Aubuchon and Dempster Holland), and McNary's executive assistant, and John Fox Arnold, Bi-State Agency general manager.

The St. Louis mayor earlier continued to blame Houghton for blocking his plan for a new bus district.

"We had to have Illinois with us for the plan to work. We couldn't have gone without Illinois, but the only way to do that was to get the Urban Mass Transportation Administration's approval."

"That would have taken months—months we weren't ready to spend in an 'us against them' situation. In my position I'm sure Illinois would have taken it."

St. Clair County Board Chairman Jerry Costello, chairman of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council, said, "Illinois has pumped millions of dollars into Bi-State's assets. We'd be losing that."

If the mayor is blaming Illinois officials, I would say he is blaming us because we would not give in to turning over all the assets of Illinois taxpayers. If that's what he's saying, then he's correct."

Vadalabene said he congratulated the St. Louis mayor on "seeing the light on this irreparable move to create a new districting 'heat' from the public and that the city would have to relent."

The mayor asserted Thursday night, "There will be no position for Houghton. He's gone."

"Wilson probably will be the chief guy in charge" of Bi-State, Schoemehl forecast that night, less than 24 hours before he asked Wilson to resign from Bi-State.

Wilson said Thursday night, "I really don't want Houghton's job. I just want to keep the bus system running. We are in a 'survival mode' right now. If we don't cut this year to cut costs, we've lost the battle."

"Drastic short-term action is needed. For the long term, it may take at least three years to get more state funds or sales taxes."

"Our board rejects the city's offer, that would put us 'out of business' next month," Wilson said.

Schoemehl commented, "We're settling the problem for the immediate term. It's a victory, but not total. The city will not let it by and let them waste money and remain in a paralyzed state."

"The Bi-State board could not resolve its management problem, so I'm resolving it for them."

"They needed to get rid of one of those guys, and they needed to cut some management jobs. I made the decision for them."

"It's a serious problem. I don't know if this will solve it or not, but it will force some decisions."

"Illinois controls the bus system because they have processes at Bi-State and that St. Louis County Executive McNary will not divert funds from the half-cent transportation sales tax and its intended use to finance public transit."

Wilson's resignation was verbal.

Houghton said Sunday, "The improvements made during my term as executive director will now be little noted, but I hope they are long remembered."

"If you look at all the indicators of performance we provide, the commissioners each month there has been substantial improvement in every category."

"I hope the board prevents St. Louis politicians from turning Bi-State into a political hiring hall and St. Louis County officials from continuing to plunder state tax revenues."

"It was within an inch of completing [a] many projects—the Bi-State Parks Airport passenger terminal opening Oct. 15, the current construction of two new bus garages, the move in the near future into the agency's new headquarters in Laclede Landing, the development of an innovative insurance contract that will save much money, and the system's construction of a new airport hanger."

"I wanted excellence. My dream was to make Bi-State have a vital role in the economic development of our whole community. But you can't subject it to political blackmail and have it achieve its potential."

"You cannot have a jurisdiction that has less than 15 percent of the operating assistance, the City of St. Louis, tell it what to hire and fire."

"That's why we have an independent commission, appointed by the governor, to remove us from politics. That's why the charter was written as it was, to insulate it from that kind of political pressure."

"The critical issue is integrity. My time was spent working to ensure the integrity of the system. I've established a firm enough foundation for it to survive with integrity. There are enough good professional people inside now, and it has enough momentum to move on."

"Cong. Clark and Circuit Clerk Joe Roddy pressured us to hire people who were not qualified for the jobs they helped get. Mayor Schoemehl elected."

Houghton said the mayor was insouciant in saying that Houghton and Wilson hate each other, and in implying that Wilson had "ran equal" to that of Houghton."

The former executive director, who in any management organization, there are going to be differences of opinion. We resolved those out, and those we couldn't, we referred to the board. That's good management. I didn't want to be my 'yes' man."

"When he came to Bi-State, he assured me and the board that, once hired, he would have no conflict of interest with the Slay organization. Then, year and a half later, he tries to hire Daniel Slay."

"It was a growing perception that in order to get a job here, you had to have political connections. A memorandum that I handed to him (Wilson), saying, 'Your office is being perceived as the equivalent of Bi-State's political hiring hall' is probably what caused any problems between us."

This year, Houghton objected to Wilson's proposal that the agency's insurer be extended without seeking competitive bids.

When later specifications appeared to Houghton to favor the same insurer, Houghton persuaded the board to take insurance authority from Wilson and give it to the general manager for administration and finance.

He said Holland pushed Wilson's subsequent plan for personnel reductions as an alternative to staff cuts proposed by an outside consultant.

"Holland opposed hiring me, and people have told me that Holland and Wilson have been at it ever since Wilson's first week on the job," Houghton said.

"Why do you think we have a crisis now? Holland and I transit district chairman, Haine, voiced satisfaction that the bus system takeover attempt by Missouri leaders was prevented.

He commented, "They don't care one bit about what happens over here. I felt it was my duty to our taxpayers to try and stop this thing, and I have no apologies to make to anyone. In fact, I'm delighted."

"I don't care if Mr. Schoemehl would have given us two or three seats on the board. We would have just been shoveling money over to a board dominated by Missouri politicians."

"We've paid millions upon millions of dollars into Bi-State over the last ten years and we deserve adequate representation."

"He just wants to directly and overtly control the entire bus system. I, for one, am not going to let him do it. He wants it all, but he's not going to get it."

"Illinois residents have contributed more per capita and still contribute more per capita than any Missouri residents."

"I'm not against the goal of cutting out administrative waste, but it is presumptuous to try and tell the commissioners how to do their jobs. If the commissioners think these jobs are wasteful and should be eliminated, then I'll support it."

"We want buses, a bus garage, and drivers over here. We don't want them owned by the mayor of St. Louis."

"We want more Illinois residents to be employed by Bi-State and we want some facilities over here for them to work in. Right now, our county has the lowest percentage of anyone in terms of employees working for Bi-State."

Four fire calls by Madison

The Madison fire department answered four fire calls during the weekend. From 11:32 p.m. Saturday, until 1:05 a.m. Sunday, firemen were at the Perdue Furniture Store on the corner of Madison Avenue and 10th Street.

Trash that apparently had accumulated in a basement window on the outside caught fire, burned the window frame and spread into the basement.

No estimate of the damage on the inside was made as Madison firemen had to use smoke ejectors before entering.

An estimated $1,000 damage was done to the outside of the furniture store building.

From 2:45 a.m. until 3:45 a.m. Sunday a frame house, owned by Curtis King, 704 Webster St., Madison, caught fire. An estimated $5,000 damage was done to the structure and $1,000 to contents.

A vacant frame house owned by John Mayes at 921 Webster St., Madison, kept firemen busy from 8:40 a.m. until 10 a.m. Cause of the fire is unknown.

At 9 p.m. Sunday until 10:30 p.m. firemen fought a fire at a vacant frame house located at 2123 Alton Ave., Madison. The cause of the fire and owner of the house are both unknown at this time, a fire department spokesman said.

Harassing witness, juror now a felony

Governor James R. Thompson announced Thursday he has signed legislation that increases the penalty for juror harassment and adds witnesses to those protected from harassment during a criminal trial.

"Jurors should be able to make a free and unbiased decision on their peers, and witnesses should also be allowed to appear in court without fear of intimidation," the governor said.

House Bill 576, which received unanimous approval in both the House and Senate, increases the penalty for juror and witness harassment from a Class A misdeemeanor to a Class 4 felony. Under the bill, harassment is defined as conveying a threat of injury to witnesses to a crime or jurors involved in the court proceedings.

FIND ITEMS IN PURSE

A 15-year-old student was arrested at Granite City High School North when a plastic container with cannabis inside a "pot" pipe and a marijuana cigarette allegedly were found in her purse by school officials last week. She was released to her mother on notice to appear.

Break windows of 6 vehicles

Six residents of the unincorporated area east of Granite City reported that windows of their car were broken last week, possibly with shots from a pellet gun.

Victims were Thomas Hartman, 3340 Red Bud Ave., who had a window of his van broken; Bill Lane, 3344 Red Bud, who had a window of his car broken; Elmer Schulte, 2304 St. Bernard Ave., who had a window of his car broken; Shirley Heath, 2320 St. Bernard, whose car window was shot with a pellet gun; Brenda Gergon, 2705 Stratford Lane, whose car's left front window was broken by a pellet; and Glen Thornburg, 2555 Buenger Blvd., whose pickup truck

NON-EMERGENCY AMBULANCE SERVICE AVAILABLE

The great English poet John Milton wrote in his AREOPAGITICA: "Books are not absolutely dead things, but do contain a potency of life in them to be as active as that soul whose progeny they are: nay do they preserve as in a vial the purest efficacy and extraction of that living intellect that bred them. As good almost kill a man as kill a good book; who kills a man kills a reasonable creature, God's image; but he who destroys a good book kills reason itself. We are said to be a non-reading generation. How much are we missing?"

When the moment approaches that the book of life is closed, those dear ones that remain are faced with decisions as to details of proper tributes to the departed. MERCER, THOMAS, and SEDLACK MORTUARIES is available to assist you in all these matters. From aspects as to the nature of the service to occasional problems such as transportation from various corners of the earth, we offer the dignified assistance that is appropriate for the dear memory you hold.

The wedding ceremony of Miss Lynette Renee Whittington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Whittington of Granite City, and Edward Todd Heppie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Heppie of Springfield, Ill., was solemnized at the First Church of the Nazarene on Aug. 14, at 8 o'clock in the evening.

The Rev. George H. D. Reader performed the service assisted by the Rev. William Roddy. An organ prelude was played by Mrs. Deloris Barker and preceding the ceremony Gerald Oliver Jr. sang, "Great Is Thy Faithfulness."

The flower girls, Courtney Kendall and Annelise Zoroban were dressed in long white dotted swiss frocks accented with black satin belts. They carried white baskets of rose petals. Jared Embick, served as the ringbearer.

Mrs. Barker, organist, and the Rev. William Kelly, violinist, played "You Decorated My Life" as the bride entered the sanctuary.

The groom's attendants included Kendall Whittington, a brother of the bride, Dennis Berg, Richard Zoroban and Jeffrey Heppie, the groom's brother.

Escorting the guests to their seats were Dennis Faltowell and Todd Heisman.

Carolyn Lucy attended the guest book and Asagay Barker distributed "rice packets."

The bride sang, "Whither Thou Goest," accompanied at the piano by Kendall Whittington, and the recessional, "My Tribute," was played by Rick and Rodney Unger accompanied by Mrs. Barker.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at the church and the reception was given at the Chouteau Township Hall. Servers included Virginia Rittshaler, Linda Moore, Rosalie Whittington, Vergie Setser, Leona Lindsay, Gloria Teller, Kaye Sykes and Mrs. Barker.

2 Peter 1:5-6 "...add to your faith virtue; and to virtue knowledge; and to knowledge temperance; and to temperance patience; and to patience godliness."

We understand that faith is the essential ingredient in our Christian walk. Without it we cannot please God. We can't have appropriate special needs in our lives, such as healing for our bodies.

However, we don't stop with just faith and expect to be what God wants us to be. We, and this is most important, we must add to our faith. We must grow in the Christian grapes. Certainly we must maintain virtue. Faith and love morals do not go together. It is sad to never add to our knowledge of God. The result? A lack of godliness.

It adds up for all of us.

Let's do it. Today.

PRESENTS PROGRAM. Mrs. Shirley Rapoff, left, loan processor-office manager and Tom Carpenter, branch manager, both of Town and Country Mortgage Co., guest speakers at a meeting of the Tri-Cities Chapter of Professional Secretaries International. The session was held at Charlie's Restaurant, and the guests spoke on the current market in relation to purchasing homes.

Real estate loans is meeting program

At the September meeting of the Tri-Cities Chapter of Professional Secretaries International, the featured guest speakers were Shirley Rapoff, loan processor-office manager and Tom Carpenter, branch manager, both of Town and Country Mortgage Co.

Their speech mainly focused on the difficulty of buying homes in today's market. It was stated that federal law prohibits the discrimination of women buying homes, whether they be single, divorced or widowed. Basically, to qualify for a loan, you take your total income, and weigh this amount against your outstanding debts and what your mortgage payments would be. Many things are considered, the size of your family, the size of the house you are looking to buy, and your credit record is checked. Town and Country Mortgage Co. handles two types of loans: FHA and VA, the speaker explained.

During the business meeting the 1981-82 budget was discussed and all committees gave reports.

Two guests were present at the meeting, Beverly Miller of the Lomas and Neilson Co. and Carolyn Warchol of Continental Insurance Co.

The next monthly meeting for the Tri-Cities Chapter will be held on Thursday, Oct. 1, at 6:15 p.m. at Charlie's Restaurant.

Featured guest speaker will be Mrs. Gail Foley, CPB, Manager-Administrative Services of Ralston Purina. She will discuss the Certified Professional Secretary program.

One of the new members of the chapter, Karen Malotki of St. Louis, just received the Certified Professional Secretary designation. She will be honored at the October meeting, it was noted.

All members are reminded to bring to the October meeting at least three names of secretaries they know or work with throughout the day so that an invitation to one of our meetings may be sent to them. This is for the ongoing membership drive contest, the president added.

Contact Kathy Smith, membership chairman at 344-6172, for more information.

Job interview meeting topic

Mrs. Melanie Gathers, a representative from Robert Morris College, spoke to Les Ashby's first, second and fourth hour classes and Mrs. Parks fifth hour class on a very crucial part of getting a job—the interview.

The five basic areas covered in the lecture were, preparation, listening, questioning, assertiveness, and selling yourself. She pointed out that proper preparation included developing the best skills that you can through class instruction, as well as, selecting data about yourself and as much information as you can about the company where you are to be interviewed.

A great deal of emphasis was placed on listening-in that it enables one to give the correct answer to questions that are asked by the person doing the interview, as well as, prepare the applicant to ask meaningful questions where additional information is needed.

Mrs. Gathers stressed that there is a great difference between assertiveness and aggressiveness. The applicant must not come on too strong nor be too meek during the interview. Work of the comments concerning selling yourself were in the non-verbal area of communication, such as the way you dress, walk, sit, use proper eye contact, watch for clues from the interviewer, and never take things from the interviewer's desk or place your personal items on the desk.

The speaker concluded her remarks by reminding the students that they should remember the name of the person who did the interview and write a letter thanking them for the time they spent with them in the interview.

REHABILITATION FACILITIES WEEK, Sept.

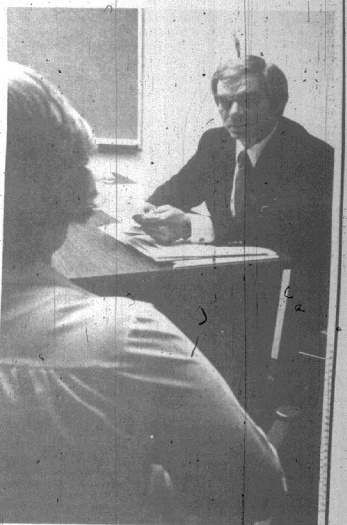

20 through 26, is being observed at the St. Elizabeth Medical Center. This week's special designation has been proclaimed by Governor James Thompson. Several of the medical center's rehabilitation departments are highlighted in the accompanying photos.

At top left is some of the sophisticated diagnostic equipment being used to evaluate a cardio-pulmonary patient. Talbot Hall, SEMC's chemical dependency unit, top right photo, is a 20-bed facility for the detoxification and treatment of persons suffering from alcoholism or a dependency on other mood-altering drugs. Counselors are an important part of this unit. The center's stroke rehabilitation program, bottom left, utilizes a multi-disciplinary team approach to meet the individual needs of the patients. Those patients with a wide range of physical disabilities are helped to develop their maximum potential in the physical therapy department, bottom right photo. These and other "rehab" units play an important part in the development and learning processes for many of the medical center's patients.

Statewide observance highlighted

Life of L. P. Frohardt, educator, is discussed

Approximately 40 persons attended the first fall meeting of the Old Six Mile Historical Society recently in the meeting room of Tri-Mor Bowl. President Ron Coleman conducted the meeting with minutes of last June's meeting read by Mrs. Darlene Kahn.

Mrs. Georgia Engelke, membership chairman, reported that there are approximately 100 members now and the membership goal is 150 members by January, 1982. Mrs. Rosalie Stern and Waldo Frohardt will be contacting business for their memberships, and Mrs. Lucille Butler and Mrs. Engelke will be contacting organizations.

Representatives of the committee will be selling memberships in the local banks during some of the Friday late-afternoon banking hours. An informational booklet will be part of the festivities at the "Overfest '81" overpass dedication Oct. 16, 17 and 18.

Get acquainted night for North band parents

The North High Band Parents Association has scheduled a "Let's Get Acquainted Evening" of video-tapes and dessert on Tuesday, Sept. 29, at 7:30 p.m. in the North High Cafeteria.

Highlights of the get-together will feature premier showings of color video tapes of "The Contest of Champions" held in Tennessee each fall, the performance of the "Steel City Belles" pom-pom squad and "North Guard" Flag and Rifle Squads at the Benefit Basketball game half-time last spring, and a showing of the "Marching Band from Steeler Land" half-time performance at the North vs. Collinsville football game during the weekend.

The invitation has been extended to all parents of members of the North High Band department, including instrumentalists, pom-pom squad members, and members of the flag and rifle squads.

This evening of entertainment is scheduled apart from the regular monthly business meeting of the Band Parents Association to give the parents of the members of Members of the public relations committee were asked to investigate the process of marking the Old Six Mile House on Route 162 as a historical site. Members of that committee are Barbara Williams, chairman, Don Gargate, Shirley Adams and Leona Wilkinson.

The required papers for incorporation have been filed with the secretary of state of Illinois and an application has been made for a tax-free status to benefit all contributors, it was reported.

Mr. Coleman displayed the proposed informational pamphlet about the group which was prepared by Henry Blumek. He sketched the Old Six Mile House and briefly stated the objectives of the group along with the categories and prices of memberships. He was asked to prepare the folder in quantity for distribution to the public.

Waldo Frohardt presented the band department a chance to get acquainted and view some highlights of past and present performances. Arrangements for the evening are under the direction of Val Stark, the North Band Parents Association president, and Mrs. Edward Rakowski, arrangements committee chairman.

the program, which was based on his father's autobiography, "The Life of L. P. Frohardt's early life until his junior year in college. The biography was brought to Granite City by the Niedringhaus before the city was organized to serve as the superintendent of schools. Mr. Frohardt held this position until he retired in 1953.

L. P. Frohardt started to school at the age of eight in central Missouri. Since he lived in an extremely wooded area, his father took him to school, blazing a trail on the trees with his axe so the young student would be able to find his way to and from school.

Most of the time he attended only four or five months out of the normal seven-month year because his help was needed on the family farm.

He was 17 when he was graduated from the eighth grade. His father would not allow him to enter high school for he was afraid the other students would corrupt him. He would have had to board in town for his high school education. Where there was a will, there was a way, and the student Frohardt wrote to a college headed by a gentleman whom his father respected. He was allowed to enter college, but he had to take academy (high school) classes along with his college classes to make up for his missing education.

Mr. Frohardt, in his autobiography, mentioned that he was one of 14 children and had not been brought up in luxury, but he was astonished when he first saw his college dormitory room. The beds were very crude, box-like arrangements and the mattresses were thick straw ticks. The biographer said he had to beat a place down in the tick to keep from falling out of the bed.

Summer vacation meant following the harvest in order to make money for the next year's tuition. Deavenport, Iowa, was as far north as Mr. Frohardt sought work, and he had many interesting experiences going to and from this area.

After the evening's speaker finished, Mrs. Anna Fossieck arose and told the group that she had lived in Granite City for 80 years and that she was a good-sized child when she came here. In a strong, clear voice, she told Waldo Frohardt that she was a junior in high school when he was born and that she could remember his father being very delighted to have another son. Mrs. Fossieck said her family had been in the "school business" for generations.

The next meeting of the historical society will be on Oct. 5 in the same location. Mrs. Fossieck will present the program and tell more about the early history of the Old Six Mile area.

Illinois ranks second in nation's industrial firms

Illinois ranks second in the United States as the nation's largest industrial firms, according to a report released by the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (DCCA).

Analysis by the state commerce department of the 1981 Fortune Double 500 Directory, Fortune magazine's annual ranking of the nation's 1,000 top selling industrial firms reveals that Illinois is home to 50 of America's 500 biggest firms. Illinois' total makes it second only to New York.

"The presence of these 50 industrial giants speaks well of the profitability of operating in Illinois," commented Governor James R. Thompson.

"Because of our central location and our fine communications and transportation facilities, these large conglomerates can be run efficiently from corporate headquarters in Illinois. The state can provide and support the management-level staffs needed to operate a complex organization like a major corporation, as well as skilled and unskilled workers to run assembly lines and man the loading docks," Thompson said. "In fact, Illinois offers everything these firms need to do business."

The lion's share — 90 percent — of Illinois' largest industrial companies are located in metropolitan Chicago, including the number one ranking firm, standard Oil of Indiana. (Standard Oil ranks ninth nationally.) Caterpillar Tractor, Peoria; Deer and Company, Moline; Archer-Daniels-Midland, Decatur; A.E. Staley Manufacturing, Decatur; and Sundstrand, Rockford, are the firms among the top fifty located downstate.

None of Illinois' top 10 industries are concentrated in two areas, food processing or industrial and farm equipment manufacturing. The remainder of the state's major industrial concerns are involved in such diverse activities as publishing and printing; petroleum refining; glass and concrete fabricating; and the manufacturing of pharmaceuticals, electrical appliances, chemicals, and toys and sporting goods.

The sales of the Illinois' 50 Fortune 500 firms totaled more than $136 billion in 1980. These Illinois-based firms employed 1.4 million workers nationwide.

Bill allows penalties by elections board

Governor James R. Thompson has signed three bills, including:

Senate Bill 794, which permits the State Board of Elections to impose civil penalties of not more than $1,000 on persons violating the Campaign Financing Act by failing or refusing to comply with a Board order directing that the violation be stopped or corrected.

The measure allows the Board to enforce its orders and helps ensure that all disclosures and needed filings are made by candidates.

The measure was sponsored by Senator Lemke and Representative Robert Terlich, both of Chicago.

Senate Bill 989, which requires that the ballot for a proposed constitutional amendment contain both pro and con arguments on the proposed change. Current law states that opposition arguments to a proposed constitutional amendment "may" be presented on the ballot.

The bill was sponsored by Senator Dawn Clark Netsch and Representative Monica Faith Stewart, both of Chicago.

Webelo parents earn funds

Webelo den parents of Nameoki School Pack 46 participated in a fund raising project at the Mitchell Fall Festival to earn funds to aid in the rechartering of Boy Scout Troop 46.

The rechartering of the troop took place last week, at the school.

The first meeting of the group was held Monday evening from 7 to 9 and will continue meeting each Monday at the same time, according to Don Lane, troop coordinator.

Anyone interested in becoming a member of the troop is invited to attend the meetings or may contact Lane at 931-1308.

Bill aids small business

Governor James R. Thompson has signed a bill that gives small businesses in Illinois a greater voice in state government's making of rules that directly affect them.

"Regulatory reform is one of the top concerns of the Illinois small business community," Thompson said. "This bill will give our small businesses a voice in what kind of rules and regulations are drawn up by the state and will help take the weight of needless regulations off their backs." Senate Bill 546 applies to businesses of fewer than 50 employees or gross sales of less than $4 million. It requires state agencies to adopt less stringent compliance standards, simplify reporting requirements or exempt small businesses from the requirements of a rule when these actions are feasible and legal. It also sets up a special hearing and comment procedure for small businesses and requires a "regulatory flexibility analysis" by agencies that explains how the rule affects a small business and what alternatives the agency has considered. The bill, which is effective January 1, 1982, applies to newly proposed rules.

City must guard against the temptation to overspend any 'windfall' from the one percent sales tax increase Isn't it amazing how a person's NEEDS grow in direct proportion to his INCOME? The same is true for governments and we sincerely hope that passage of an extra one percent city sales tax in Granite City Tuesday night will not produce a windfall which will lead to overspending.

With the influx of federal revenue sharing money, community development block grants and other windfalls a decade ago, we saw headlines such as "Township flush with funds" and "Township to meet or determine how to use new revenue."

We saw buildings constructed, new programs started, wives and relatives hired to help administer programs, and departments expanded.

Now that the river of property from the federal government has dwindled to a trickle, governments are searching for the funds to continue to maintain, heat and cool the new buildings, to keep the salaries on the payroll and to continue all the new programs that senior citizens and special groups have come to expect from their governments.

Liberal and conservative townships need cash to continue to operate at their current levels. Their needs have grown in direct proportion to their incomes.

Granite City officials Tuesday night, on a 10 to 4 vote, authorized imposition of a one percent city sales tax, which should produce approximately $1.9 million a year, according to city figures.

The city's budget now predicts a deficit of $369,796 at the end of the fiscal year, April 30, without a sales tax. Assuming that collection of the tax can begin by November, the tax could raise $950,000 in the last six months of the fiscal year, nearly triple what the city needs to balance its budget.

Aldermen argue that the city also needs a cushion to get it through the period between next April, when the budget ends, and August or September, when new tax funds begin arriving, so that it will not be necessary to borrow money for the million next summer, as was required this summer.

It is a point well taken. Borrowing costs money and, we taxpayers, have to pay the interest.

However, we wonder if governments should be allowed to make a "pull" now to get them through the rough time. The county and state have created the long "hull" between the time the fiscal year ends and the time the first taxes are received.

Multiplicities, board of review hearings, special assessment reductions and complicated tax collection later and later into the summer each year, causing the House has set forth 11 principles it hopes to see incorporated in the amendments this Congress is likely to pass. Among these: "Spending and regulation should be reasonable and should be related to the economic and physical realities of the particular area involved."

The fundamental concept of health-based primary standards should be maintained. They should be based on sound science and data, and where air quality represents a health risk.

States should be accorded a full partnership in implementing air standards. The federal government should monitor state achievement of the national health requirements.

Deadlines for achieving primary air quality standards should be adjusted to reflect realities in each area.

Anne Gorsuch, administrator of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, says the administration's goal is to persuade Congress to enact a bipartisan bill that includes the 11 principles. The Senate Environment and Public Affairs Committee has begun drafting such a bill.

In the House, Cong. James Brophy (R-N.C.) has introduced H.R. 3471, dealing with emission controls and Clean Air Act administration. Cong. Bob Traxler (D-Mich.) and Cong. John Dingell (D-Mich.) introduced H.R. 4400, dealing with emission from mobile pollution sources like cars and trucks.

The act's funding expires Sept. 30 and the current act simply will be continued until a rewrite is passed.

Comprehensive bipartisan revisions are essential, not to weaken the law but to make it work better.

Guest comment by Washington Report—The 97th Congress has met the challenge of producing two bills necessary for economic recovery: spending and tax cuts. A third tool, regulatory reform, still is needed. Legislative changes must be enacted in order to remove regulatory roadblocks to economic progress.

The first regulatory reform challenge facing lawmakers is amending the Clean Air Act. This 10-year-old law has been labeled by the administration as the main focus of its fight against excessive regulation.

Congress has been asked to draft revisions with two goals in mind: cleaning up the air and spurring economic growth. The act has hundreds of regulations, many of which are outdated, and many are aimed at achieving and maintaining clean air and health for all Americans.

Although the act has resulted in improvement in the nation's air quality, it has hurt the economy. Its punitive rules have affected almost everyone—rural and urban communities, new and existing industries, and large and small businesses.

Those regulations can affect a plant's equipment, location, modernization, expansion or employment level—in short, almost every aspect of business operation.

Confusion, inefficient use of energy, inhibition of industrial growth and productivity, and high costs are unintended, but very real, side effects of the current law.

The administration believes that the Clean Air Act could be rewritten to make it more practical, while maintaining clean air goals. With this in mind, the White governments to borrow. However, the city is not the only one. The school district borrows. Other cities borrow. Townships borrow. Few have attempted to raise taxes to build a cushion to get them through the summer.

The Granite City Council on Tuesday night gave only glancing recognition to an editorial suggestion by the Press-Record that it consider something less than a full one percent sales tax, perhaps only a quarter-cent on the sales dollar.

Half of one percent would raise approximately $950,000 a year, which should be enough to balance the city's budget within a year and a half and enable the rehiring of lost police dispatchers, firemen and others.

The aldermen indicated that if the one percent sales tax raises more money than is needed, they can consider reducing the percentage some time in the future.

The state set the precedent when it lowered the tax on food in one of the two consecutive years, dropping that tax from five percent to three percent, of which the city already receives one percent.

The aldermen made a fiscal juggle between now and April and have every justification to try to grab "a fistful of dollars" and the light off some of the upcoming increases in city obligations.

The garbage contract is up for renewal and is expected to increase drastically. The city's fire insurance funds have been tapped and must be rebuilt. The sewage treatment plant is giving indications of another bad year financially, and the difference will likely be made up from the general fund.

The major item the aldermen face is the contract with every union representing city employees expires this year and must be renegotiated. There is a danger there. If the city, indeed, builds the surplus it needs, the workers are sure to eyeing that extra money. Employees' needs also could increase in direct proportion to their incomes.

As the Press-Record pointed out, too large a tax can be counterproductive. Some auto dealerships are threatening to move out of the city if the city imposes the new one percent sales tax which will add approximately $100 to the price of many new cars. We don't think they're wrong.

At least one large grocery store is said to be actively engaged in negotiations to move to the outskirts of the city.

But even the city fathers will watch closely the reactions to the new tax imposed this week, and will guard against it becoming counterproductive to the point where it harms the city's business and its residents while overstuffing the city's coffers and payrolls.

The council members concurred as they also apparently have been receiving many complaints about motorcycles.

Police Chief Farris Smith said he would like the police to begin immediately enforcing all laws governing motorcycles and that he would like to see citations without exception.

The council members closed with a prayer for the late Venice Mayor William "Mike" Ebersole, who died on Wednesday, Sept. 15.

Venice asked to honor Solo Banks

The Venice City Council at its Tuesday night meeting Tuesday night asked the city to honor Solo Banks, a group in North Venice, to change the name of Logan Street to Solo Banks Avenue.

The late Z.M. Banks operated a collection agency in the 1100 block of Logan Street, Venice, for many years, and was well liked and respected by the community.

In a letter to the council Frank Smith said that he and later on in life our grandchildren would be able to tell a story about a man who lived in Venice by the name of Mr. Z.M. Banks.

Harry T. Echols thanked Frank for his suggestion and turned the letter over to City Attorney Harry Smith to see what legal steps were needed should the city council decide to take the suggestion of Frank.

Noisy motorcycles in the city, and parking them on sidewalks already has been the source of many complaints, according to the council.

The council members concurred as they also apparently have been receiving many complaints about motorcycles.

Police Chief Farris Smith said he would like the police to begin immediately enforcing all laws governing motorcycles and that he would like to see citations without exception.

The council members closed with a prayer for the late Venice Mayor William "Mike" Ebersole, who died on Wednesday, Sept. 15.

players and the sewer superintendent, Gene Flisk, turned around and submitted a budget of $540,000, with six employees. "We just don't have that kind of money," Smith contended.

Nurses have been running over the anticipated budget, Smith noted, saying that they budgeted $1,000 for postage, but the billing will cost about $2,500 for the fiscal year. About $30,000 was budgeted for utilities, but the power to operate 51 pumps will probably boost the actual bills to about $75,000. For maintenance of office equipment, $3,000 was budgeted.

"If it goes on like this, we will need $30,000 to $40,000," Smith commented.

"The problem is that nobody ever put a pencil to paper on this thing. They hired people seven months before we could hook up with Granite City and, as long as the federal government was paying them, it was a healthy success, he added.

He said there is some resentment that the engineers of the project, Jeneau and Associates (formerly Sheppard, Morgan & Schwaab), have received nearly $1 million for their work, but the sewer system not placed in line with what other firms are charging on similar projects.

One matter which could cause a serious problem is to get the operating fund in the black. Smith said a pending lawsuit by homeowners in the Brandon Heights subdivision, where the sewer system not placed in a recorded easement because the former sewer committee failed to record the easements with the county recorder of deeds.

Walter "Dick" Sparks, former chairman of the sewer committee, said the committee did not have the money to file every case, but he was recording fee for each. "Then, we didn't have any money. Not a penny. We hoped that when the grant came, we could record them. (The easements) all at once. Somebody was dragging his feet. The construction guys should have known where to put it."

Smith said that even if the county loses the suit and a sizeable judgment against the sewer district is awarded, the suit would be the only one which resulted from the sewer construction. "If we get stuck, that's not a bad margin of error in a $17 million project."

and round it out to a flat 6 percent (the current 5 1/2 percent on non-food items plus a three-quarter percent city sales tax).

He noted that when Leonard Davis was mayor of Granite City more than 18 years ago, the state collected a 2 1/2 percent sales tax and the city was given the option of adding another half percent. Until the city did, he contended, the state went ahead and collected three percent, as provided by a half cent per dollar.

"One merchant said he was paying two percent on everything he sold, and the extra half cent, but that was when downtown was booming," Whitmer recalled. Finally, the city imposed the half-cent tax, but that built out the station at 23rd Street and Nameoki (Road)," Whitmer added.

"We've got to get your facts straight and go whatever is right," Whitmer added.

Alderman Paul Flisk of the Third Ward said the complicated sales tax now is a nightmare for grocery store owners who have to charge 3 1/2 percent on food items and 5 1/2 percent on non-food items. "It is a lot of bookwork for the store owner and is a hard job to do. If they don't have computerized cash registers, you still can't be paying 3 1/2 percent on food items. Check your bills," Flisk suggested.

He said he feels the city should have passed the one percent utility tax on electricity and should have ignored the objections of Granite City Steel, since the city has been paying the company a great deal of money through industrial revenue bond issues. "National Steel got a lot of cheap money through city bond issues," he contended.

"We talked about helping the elderly and unemployed and there are a lot of unemployed in the city. This is going to hurt them. The auto industry will hurt. It is going to hurt grocery stores in the area to make it to compete with Wobbe (senior planner of the Southwestern-Illinois Metropolitan and

Look, it's Super Card!

By PETE HAYES

of the Press-Record.
ST. LOUIS — Roy Green is an average football player. If you believe that, I've got some swamp land in Florida I'd like to sell you.

Green is a third-year player for the St. Louis football Cardinals. On the roster, he's listed as a safety. That's defense, you know. But two weeks ago against the Dallas Cowboys, Green was inserted into the offensive lineup for one play and caught a 80-yard pass from quarterback Neil Lomax. That play gave the Big Red coaching staff an idea.

So last Sunday against the Washington Redskins, Green was a starting wide receiver. He caught four passes for well over 100 yards, including a 58-yard touchdown pass from Jim Hart. He also played safety, intercepting a pass that killed a Washington comeback drive late in the game. He almost had an interception earlier that could have easily been a touchdown. There was nothing between Green and the goal line but Astro-Turf. Green also returned kickoffs and punts and was on the Cardinals' kickoff team twice.

He did everything but sell popcorn in the stands. And on a couple plays, he was out of the lineup. He might just have been up in the bleachers hawking souvenirs and eats.

In just two games, Green has become the Cardinals' leading receiver in terms of total yardage — five receptions for 175 yards. He's also a leader on defense.

How does he do it? "I don't tire very easily," said Green, who may be a candidate for understudy of the year honors. "I just love to play football. I'll play where they want me to play."

Green, as you may have guessed by now, is a natural athlete. In fact, he had to make a choice between football and baseball when coming out of high school. While playing football at Henderson State (in Arkansas) he played a little wide receiver.

"About 12 or 13 plays, I think," he said. "I caught a couple touchdowns."

Green's tenure as wide receiver for the Cardinals may be short-lived, however. Unless the injured Mel Gray returns to the lineup in a few weeks, Green may go back to defense exclusively.

But he'll be there the next time they need him. Not a bad secret weapon to have on your sidelines.

Trying to identify car troubles? You will find that many symptoms are immediately visible. On the other hand you may notice strange sounds and/or noises. You can also sometimes identify a problem by the way the car handles. If you are in fact, suspect of a problem, take it to a reputable service facility. Before okaying the repair work, ask the technician to inspect the condition of all parts in the system. Replacing a badly worn part without checking other related parts is often poor economy. In the case of brakes or steering, it may provide a false sense of security and endanger safety. On the other hand, every part in the system does not necessarily have to be replaced simply because one or two parts are worn.

Nowadays there are numerous books on the market advising us on how to take care of our car and save money. However, some jobs are more complicated and that's when BIG 4 CHEVROLET COMPANY can help you. Our GM trained personnel receive up-to-date training several times a year so you know you will receive the newest and most modern service possible for your car. We're open Monday thru Friday 7-6 and you may call 345-5444 or visit 1820 Vandalia Street in Collinsville. We welcome all major credit cards.

Delegation to ask Weber to cut red tape on exemptions

Madison County is one of only three counties in the state of Illinois which requires its residents to sign up for assessment reductions under Senate Bill 1790, rather than granting that reduction automatically each year to all homeowners and members of the Organizing Committee for Eastern Madison County plan to ask State's Attorney Don Weber why.

The unfairness of forcing residents of this county to sign up year after year for the assessment reduction was underscored this year when the county failed to credit the reductions to many of those who had properly applied, a spokesman for the Organizing Committee contended.

In order for homeowners to rectify that error, made by the county, the homeowners have had to pay a $10 protest filing fee, and to pay their full tax bills under protest, rather than being allowed to pay in installments.

Although the unfairness of this system, required to correct an error made by the county, has been pointed out to county officials, the Madison County board made no attempt to settle the matter of the "missing" 1790 and Homestead exemptions.

County Board members present at a Sept. 15 meeting in Hamel promised to act to resolve the issue by simplifying the procedure for correcting missing exemptions on tax bills.

More than 200 members of the Organizing Committee and the Farm Alliance attended the Sept. 15 meeting and were successful in encouraging the county to remove township multipliers from the assessments of farm outbuildings, including barns. The change is being corrected without the farmers having to file protests and farmers will be sent a corrected tax bill before the deadline to pay their second installments of taxes.

In addition to seeking a more convenient way of resolving missing 1790 and Homestead exemptions, the Organizing Committee members plan to ask Weber for clarification of a statement he made Sept. 15 that persons paying their taxes under protest because of missing exemptions could pay the taxes in two installments, instead of one.

County officials are demanding payment in full of the taxes immediately when they are filed under protest.

They said they hope to present the matter to Weber to try and get clarifications on these matters and to urge him to support automatic Senate Bill 1790 exemptions for all homeowners in Madison County.

Old bridge is hazzard

Keeping you off the old Chain of Rock bridge is almost impossible job, despite a constant effort by Madison city officials, as well as county, state and local law enforcement agencies.

"We have had blocks, a fence with barbed wire, mounds of dirt, and we even had steel girders to block the bridge, according to Mayor Mike Saseyk of Madison.

"No trespassing signs are torn down faster than we can put them up.

"It is almost unbelievable, but someone, allegedly teenagers or young adults, used steel cutting torches to cut through the steel girders we put up to keep people off the bridge. Can you believe that?" Saseyk said.

On Sept. 13, a teenager, Stephen P. Finley, of Ferguson, drowned in the river following a fall from the bridge.

Madison closed the bridge over Interstate 270, which is toll free, opened in 1969.

Since the bridge was closed two feasibility studies have been made, the last one in 1975.

The council last month approved an updated study to be made for possible use of the bridge.

Tearing down the bridge is felt to be too costly and there are problems with environmental government agencies and the Coast Guard over the concrete pillars.

"It is particularly hard, in these days, to stop kids from drinking and having pot parties and the like. Why they can't find a safe place to do this thing, if they must, is beyond me."

Saseyk said the city is open for any suggestions on how to use the bridge or how to keep people off of it.

Plan open house at remodeled MHC club

A remodeling and renovation project at the Mexican Honorary Commission Club, 1801 Spruce St., is finished and plans are underway to observe its completion with an open house.

The activity was discussed at a recent meeting of the commission, which set the open house for Sunday, Oct. 11.

John Valencia, MHC president, said additional space has been created in the upstairs area of the building and rest room facilities are now located on both the upper and lower levels.

The basement bar has been completely remodeled with this area expanded to permit dancing. Plenty of parking space also is available, Valencia said.

Frank Serrano, building and bar manager, said the MHC Hall is now being offered on a rental basis for wedding receptions and similar functions.

In other business, the commissioners agreed to sponsor a men's indoor soccer team and noted with appreciation two donations from the Mexican Honorary Commission Women's Auxiliary.

The monetary gifts included a $2,000 air conditioning unit for the club building and a $900 donation to purchase tables and chairs.

Mrs. Ruby Ybarra reported the auxiliary will host an "Enchilada Night" on Oct. 30, with carryout orders available by calling 876-9329.

Preliminary plans were reviewed for a Christmas party, scheduled Dec. 12, with a fee to be charged non-members, and a New Year's Eve dance for members and guests.

Valencia said Reuben Mendoza will serve as host for the commission's next meeting at 2 p.m.; Sunday, Oct. 4.

In its annual "School's Open" program, designed to make drivers especially aware of children going to and from school, the AAA is urging motorists to give a second thought to and a second look at the hundreds of school children they soon will encounter.

Children are active, inquisitive and impetuous, and never miss an opportunity to explore something that interests them—even if it means venturing into the street.

The "dart out," or sudden appearance of a child in the path of a moving vehicle, is one of the most common causes of motor accidents involving children.

To reduce child pedestrian accident potential, drivers should pay closer attention to parked cars, shrubbery, or other similar vision obstructions.

Many children know little of pedestrian safety rules, and even those that do are likely to forget them in pursuit of a rolling ball or a wind-tossed school paper.

School children generally depend on motorists to exercise safe driving practices, and area motorists should be especially alert for children traveling on foot, on bicycles, and boarding or alighting from school buses.

The AAA offers these safety reminders for motorists:

• When in school zones, watch for reduced speed limit signs that become effective when classes are in session.

• Remember the law about stopping before passing or overtaking a school bus stopped to pick up or discharge children.

• If you are a parent, help your child map out his or her safest way to school. And remember that traffic hazards near schools multiply when children are dropped off and picked up in family cars.

• Remember that school traffic controls such as stop signs, traffic signals, and adult crossing guards are now operating.

Utility work at university

The Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees has ratified actions of the Architecture and Design Committee in approving release of funds and architectural and engineering selections for several projects at the various campuses of the SIU system. The committee has been authorized by the board July 9 to take necessary actions to initiate work on 1981-82 fiscal year capital projects because the board did not have an August meeting.

The project approvals, architectural and engineering selections, and requests to the governor for release of funds, which were granted by the committee and then ratified by the board in September, were for the following projects: $1,000,000 project to improve the chilled water distribution system at SIUE. It was recommended to the Board of Trustees (CDB) that the firm of Hall, Schwartz and Associates of Decatur be employed for the design work.

Two SIUE projects totaling $86,000 to install an air filter at the dental clinic, the growing and storage facility. It was recommended that design work be accomplished by the CDB staff.

A $27,500 project for rehabilitation of the underground electrical distribution system at SIUE; design work is to be completed by Peter J. Prineas & Associates, Carbondale.

A $14,800 project for installation of an energy management system at the School of Medicine in the Springfield; a heat recovery system in the recovery system in the amount of $24,600; and localized time hood controls, $28,800. It was recommended to the CDB that design work on these projects be handled by Ralph Hennemann and Associates of Champaign.

Applications are being accepted for participation in three international programs sponsored by 4-H, according to Shirley Mills, Extension County Extension Advisor for 4-H and Youth.

Young people ages 15 to 25 may apply to participate in the International 4-H Youth Exchange (IFYE) Ambassador, Representative or Youth Development Program.

The IFYE Ambassador program gives young people, ages 15-19, the opportunity to broaden their understanding of international programs, problems, relations and cultures of other nations, and to gain a better understanding of world understanding.

Participants spend six weeks in a European or Caribbean country. The IFYE Representative program is designed for youth ages 19 to 25 and consists of three to three month stays in one of 38 host countries.

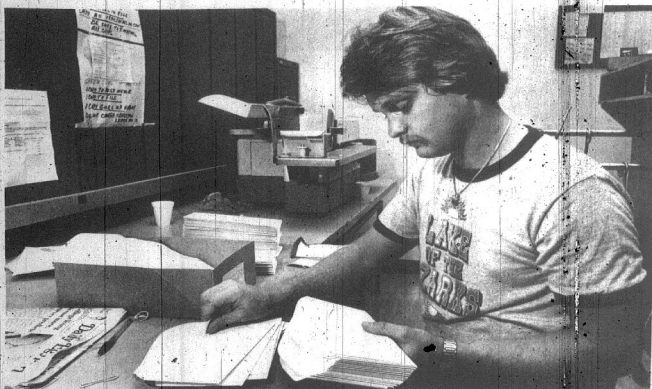

The International Youth Development Project is a 15 to 18 month opportunity for young people, age 20 and older to help develop 4-H type programs in other countries.

The application deadline is Oct. 20 with interviews scheduled on the Urbana-Champaign campus of the University of Illinois, Nov. 13 and 14.

To obtain an application form persons may stop in the Madison County Extension office at 800 Hillsboro Avenue, Edwardsville or call 656-8400.

$1 million is KC goal

Harry Hadley, faithful navigator of the Fourth Degree, and August Saadat, past grand knight of Tri-Cities Council 1098, will head the annual Knights of Columbus charity candy sale in the Quad-Cities.

Illinois Knights of Columbus will be setting their sights on a million-dollar target for their highly successful mentally retarded fund-raising project they undertake annually.

The Knights will launch their two-day campaign the weekend of Oct. 30-31 when they hope to exceed their $807,000 gross collections of last year by almost 25 percent.

Gus Sundermeier of Oak Lawn, chairing the statewide drive for the second straight year, anticipates that nearly every one of the 293 councils in Illinois will have an increased number of volunteers at street intersections and shopping centers.

With the drive receiving greater public acceptance, especially when people realize that nearly all the money collected during the two-day drive is returned to the community where it was solicited, the Knights are convinced the million-dollar goal is a realistic one.

Last year, local councils made substantial contributions to the sheltered workshops, special schools, associations, and mentally retarded organizations in their communities.

In the Archdiocese of Chicago, close to 100 councils collected in excess of $852,000 last fall for the mentally retarded. After deducting the cost of the candy and 10 percent of the gross for statewide projects like the Illinois Special Olympics, Inc., the balance of the money was distributed to approved mentally retarded groups by the local councils.

In the Joliet Diocese, the Knights raised in excess of $106,000 and more than $70,000 in the Rockford Diocese. Peoria diocesan Knights collected over $110,000. Springfield Diocese $108,000, and the Belleville Diocese over $65,000.

Close to $100,000 has been donated by the Knights from their state fund for the mentally retarded to help underwrite the summer and winter games in which the special youngsters participate. Darrell W. Beck of Decatur, current state deputy of the Illinois Knights, is president of the Illinois Special Olympics and has been active with this MR project for several years.

The six-figure contribution to Illinois Special Olympics has been especially helpful in underwriting the cost of the 150 winter games in recent years.

The candy product used in "selling" the program, plus minimal promotional costs of the participating councils, are the only expenses deducted.

All the money collected during the two-day drive is placed in a charitable trust. Upon request of the local council money is donated to specified community mentally retarded organizations.

In order to give the program as broad a coverage as possible, volunteers from several of the community mentally retarded organizations, students and members of KC families help out in the two-day drive.

Just as in past years, both Knights sponsored a lead mobile manned by technicians from the Illinois Association for Retarded Children, and the Knights' regional headquarters in New Haven, Conn.

Poelker interim Bi-State executive

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

Resignations were accepted Sunday from the two top administrators of the Bi-State Development Agency, whose interim executive director will be John Poelker, St. Louis' mayor in the mid-1970s.

With both Executive Director Charles G. Houghton III and Transit Manager William J. Wilson departing, Poelker will serve for several months while the agency considers whether to hire a management firm to run its bus system.

The unusual Sunday session of Bi-State commissioners, including Carl E. Mathias of Granite City, followed a procedural crisis in which St. Louis and St. Louis County threatened to bankrupt the agency and its metropolitan area bus operations.

Illinoisans make up half of the ten-member Bi-State board. St. Louis Mayor Vincent Schoenheit's effort to create a new bus district with less Illinois control was abandoned Thursday night.

Schoenheit at that point still hoped to put Wilson in charge, and wanted Houghton and 74 others fired.

But on Friday Schoenheit abandoned Wilson, Houghton and Wilson agreed to resign after learning Poelker was willing to serve in Houghton's job; the Wilson position was not filled.

With the compromise ended during the weekend, half-cent sales taxes blocked by St. Louis and St. Louis County since July 1—are expected to start flowing again to Bi-State. The agency was within about two weeks of running out of money.

Wilson said, "My primary concern was to see that the transit system survives."

Houghton urged the board to "get a blood oath from (St. Louis County Executive) Gene McNary that he won't divert funds from the transportation sales tax, and a blood oath from Schoenheit that he will not try to influence the hiring process."

"If they can get that, I'll go out feeling I've done a good job, that I've protected the agency," that will mean my two years and two months here have been a success.

"You've got two different political forces joining together for two different reasons. One political force wants to decide who is hired and fired at Bi-State. The other does not want all the half-cent transportation sales taxes generated in the county to go to public transit; (McNary) wants to divert some of those funds to other accounts to balance his budget."

Schoenheit and McNary attended Sunday's meeting and said the actions taken will help stabilize the agency.

Also present was St. Clair County Board Chairman Jerry Costello, who said Poelker's appointment "will restore faith in Bi-State." St. Clair voters will hold an advisory referendum in November on a quarter-cent transit sales tax.

Poelker, a vice-president of the Regional Commerce and Growth Association, and the conference was not only of Costello but of the St. Louis mayor, St. Louis County executive, Illinois and Missouri board members, Houghton and Wilson.

Both of the resigning officials will receive a month's salary and payment for accrued vacation time as their severance pay. Houghton received about $52,000 annually and Wilson, $50,000.

Two other decisions made Sunday allow diesel fuel to be bought on the spot market rather than on a contract basis, saving up to $500,000 a year, and designate the Fred R. Jones Co. to administer the agency's self-insurance program; the $93,000 insurance contract is a $60,000 yearly saving.

Bi-State Chairman James S. Nations said at the meeting that the board will "search aggressively" for a professional management firm to take over direction of the transit system, but also could decide instead to run it internally and set up a new management structure.

He said Poelker has been told to "act judiciously by determining what cutbacks should be made to reduce duplication in the Bi-State work force. A Houghton-Wilson lead had led to administrative duplication, critics of the agency, including Congressman William Clay, said.

State Senator Sam Vadasilabene of this district said Friday that "instead of taking cheap shots at people far more knowledgeable than he is in the field of transportation, Mayor Schoenheit ought to fire the people who suggested the ill-conceived idea of a bus system operated by St. Louis and St. Louis County."

"The brilliant mayor of St. Louis tries to lay the blame on certain Illinois politicians (for blocking a new district) and he doesn't even have the courage to name them. Well, and the elected official who has sponsored the legislation affecting the interests of Illinois in the Bi-State Agency.

"I could not have discharged my responsibility to the citizens of the region if I had allowed Schoenheit and McNary to ram down our throats a plan that would drastically under-represent Illinois in the bus system."

"I thought the day had passed when Missouri public officials tried to treat Metro East like a poor relative."

"I have honestly addressed the problem of getting the people of Illinois to pay a fair, reasonable share of public transportation costs. Houghton and many of his staff members worked hard on both sides of the river to further that goal."

Chairman Nations' warning Sunday that "Bi-State's worries are not over."

Nations, Mathias and Robert Schriepf of Illinois and Guy Jaffe, Michael Aubuchon and Dempster Holland of Missouri approved the selection of Poelker. The other four commissioners were absent.

Poelker said he will begin making inquiries of firms experienced in transit management but that "we have some talented people here and don't want them to feel they're going to be swept out."

Schoenheit said he will go along with whatever management reductions Poelker recommends.

McNary gave no promises on restoring sales taxes but commented, "The administrative staff has got to be cut down to one we can afford. But service will have to be improved, and there will have to be adjustments at the farebox. We've been funding two fiefdoms, and putting it down to one should help."

City fund growth, economies sought

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

Increased revenue, sick leave reform, productivity increases, easing of restrictive work rules, faster county property tax collection and increased computerization were mentioned last week as goals of the city government of Granite City. The occasion was the September prayer breakfast.

A gathering of 50 at Charlie's Restaurant heard talks by Mayor Paul Schuler, City Clerk Robert Stevens and Administrative Aide David Nolan, who Schuler said has been serving as acting city comptroller.

Host was the Granite City Rotary Club, headed by Robert Minkwell.

Drew Karandjeff, who presided, noted that the monthly prayer breakfast series was initiated by Carl Mathias with the leadership of Richard West, then the Rotary president, in 1972. The series was described as action-oriented, with emphasis on considering and resolving community issues.

Plans were made by the group last week to encourage Madison County officials to utilize new state laws permitting more rapid assessment reviews and quicker tax bill preparation.

A discussion brought out that late tax collections force taxing bodies to borrow funds, and also deprive the agencies of some of their opportunity to invest idle tax receipts at interest.

The mayor reported that an added one percent city sales tax was placed on first reading last week and will be up for adoption by the City Council tomorrow night.

He said the municipality had a $400,000 deficit at the end of the fiscal year on April 30, and expects a deficit of nearly that amount ($360,000) next April despite a ten percent reduction in employees and deferral of about $500,000 in capital expenditures, including purchase of new police patrol cars.

The city owes about $1,200,000 in tax warrants and may derive at least $1,500,000 from the new sales tax, Mayor Schuler estimated.

He said the $14 million city budget includes overpass construction funds, Nolan said salaries total $4,125,000 and the figure rises to $5,300,000 with inclusion of retirement contributions, group insurance and fireman and police pensions.

The $5.3 million is about 73 percent of the $7.2 million general fund, Nolan added; $1.2 million borrowing increases overall general fund costs to $6,465,000.

The mayor and city clerk outlined expanded training and use of the city's computer equipment, and answered questions from the breakfast group.

Stevens said a new computer payroll program is working smoothly and incorporates up to 20 types of pay deductions for the convenience of city employees.

Schuler pointed out that the Operating Engineers have cooperated in ending some of the manning requirements at the wastewater treatment plant.

85-acre development proposed;

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

"One big store to serve as an anchor. That's all I need to get it going, and there are about five big stores showing an interest," Stan Lucas, president of SEMCO Inc., land developer, commented Thursday as he displayed the preliminary plat for a major 85-acre development he plans to build on an extension of St. Clair Avenue between Maryville Road and Mockingbird Lane.

"Just the anchor, and the cooperation of local officials," Lucas added. The cooperation of local officials is not assured, however, as Alderman Sam Whitmer of the Sixth Ward resisted at last week's city council meeting.

"I ask that every alderman get a copy (of the Lucas proposal). This is too big," Whitmer gushed.

However, the aldermen were cooperative Aug. 4 when Lucas first announced plans for the major commercial and multi-family residential development and asked the council to issue up to $8 million in industrial revenue bonds for the project. Lucas is in the process of proving those bonds with the endorsement of the city council.

Still needed from the city council are agreements to annex the property to the city and to approve the zoning required.

Lucas' preliminary plat shows an 85-acre development which would include space for commercial buildings, office condominiums and apartments along a planned extension of St. Clair Avenue to the east of Maryville Road.

Actually, two entrances are planned, one from St. Clair Avenue and the other across from Saratoga Avenue. Two 60-foot-wide streets are planned along the north and south sides of the proposed 22-acre Town & Country Plaza Shopping Center. The two streets would join east of Mockingbird Lane and become one street at the intersection.

Eleven acres of commercial area are planned on the north end of the plat, backing up to the Seventh Addition to the Town and Country East Subdivision. In the northeast corner would be a storm water holding basin. Along the east side and 14 acres of planned multi-family area, separated by the street to Mockingbird Lane.

Along the south edge of the development, from the multi-family area west, are five acres and three acres of space for office condominiums, separated by Boston Place, four acres for commercial use just south of the extension of Saratoga Ave., and two acres north of the Saratoga extension, bordering Maryville Road, for which no specific use has been decided, Lucas said.

Behind Glenview Chapel and

Suburban Baptist Church on Maryville Road, Lucas plans a 60-foot wide north-south street connecting the St. Clair Avenue extension with the Saratoga Avenue extension. The proposed shopping center will border the east side of the street.

The preliminary plat was presented to the council with a letter from Lucas asking the council to refer it to the city's Plan Commission for study and a recommendation. He indicated that businesses are interested in immediate development in the area and urged that action be taken as soon as possible to approve the planned unit development.

Lucas first announced plans for the development Aug. 4 when he asked the council to issue up to $8 million to assist in financing the development. Those papers have been prepared by Lucas, with consultation by the city's engineers and attorneys, but Lucas says he will not request that the bonds be issued until he is ready to begin construction.

City Engineer Monroe Brewer has predicted that if the city secures the $8 million for Lucas, other firms will submit requests for similar revenue bonds to construct their stores and buildings. Since there is no cost or obligation to the city from the bonds, cooperation by the council with the project may lead to a major development with increased taxes for the area, it was indicated.

The Plan Commission will study the preliminary plat for the planned unit development at a public hearing to be scheduled, probably in October. Final approval could not be given as a planned unit development (PUD) unless the city, in the interim, passes the proposed new city zoning ordinance, which contains the PUD category.

The current zoning ordinance does not allow PUDs, which are approved as single zoning requests, waiving setback requirements and other requirements to give developers freedom to mix residential, multi-family, commercial and even industrial development in new and attractive ways without having to seek numerous zoning variances, according to planners.

The majority of the development planned by Lucas would fall in the new C-4 commercial and R-2 multi-family zoning categories, he said.

Another requirement will be sanitary sewers capable of serving the businesses and apartment buildings which will locate there. Lucas has already written letters and a sample resolution of intent for the Madison County Special Sewer Committee to study. He seeks annexation of the property into the sewer district and a promise that sewer service will be provided to any structures which locate there.

The sewer committee is expected to study Lucas' proposals at the regular, October meeting.

"It think it is going to go and is going to be something really big," Lucas said. He contended numerous smaller businesses have already expressed strong interest and are "ready to go," if a large "anchor" store, such as a grocery, a department store or other large store, makes a commitment to build there or to lease a store Lucas is willing to build.

"If there is no anchor, there will be no development. I will just drop it there, but I don't think that is going to happen. I have people coming in here today (Thursday) to look over the property for a major store and I'm in touch with several others who are interested," Lucas revealed.

Farmers treated better than individual taxpayer—Cruse

Urban taxpayers of Madison County are not being treated fairly while the county is "bending over backwards" to help farmers pay lower taxes, Granite City Tax Assessor Von Dee Cruse charged Thursday afternoon.

Cruse said that when the county or township makes an error in a tax bill, the taxpayer has to go through elaborate procedures to rectify the errors.

When it was discovered that farmers may not have to pay multipliers imposed on the assessments of their barns and outbuildings, the county apologized, cut through all the red tape and will send farmers corrected second installment tax bills automatically, without the farmers having to file certificates of error or leaving their homes.

"I have had 80-year-old women who have had to take a taxcab to my office due to an error on the part of the county or the township pay the full amount of their tax bill under protest (no installments can be accepted under this procedure), go to the county clerk's office, write a $10 check for a filing fee for their objection to their taxes and then talk to an assistant state's attorney and possibly go to a hearing before a judge to rectify the error.

"It may take several trips to Edwardsville and then they have to wait 60 to 90 days for a refund," the assessor related.

Meanwhile, farmers, who are having farmland worth $2,000 assessed at $250, for example, are not subject to a multiplier on that farmland or outbuildings and do not have to do anything to have an error made by the county corrected, Cruse contended.

"Urban residents pay more in taxes on a small vacant lot than farmers pay on acres and acres," he contended.

"The thing that really burns me is that, through this thing with the farmers, the county has shown that it can set up a simple, easy solution for correcting an error. But they won't use it for urban residents, only the farmers.

"There are no travel expenses, no $10 check, no repeated trips to Edwardsville, no hearings, nothing. Farmers just sit at home and are sent a corrected tax bill. We sit here with a 21 percent multiplier in Granite City, and it applies to everything. It's just not fair," Cruse added.

Miss Evelyn Bowles, county clerk, told the county board last week that her office could easily identify the farm properties which had been overcharged and the data processing department could print corrected bills for those affected.

"They made it so easy," Cruse said.

He also contends that Madison County State's Attorney Don Weber made an error in judgment when he agreed that assessments should not be applied to farm outbuildings.

He said the county's Board of Review told Supervisor of Assessments Jim Barton that the multipliers should be applied to barns and outbuildings, but an assistant state's attorney felt that a 1977 law prohibited counties from adding multipliers to farm land also applied to outbuildings.

Weber was asked at public meetings on taxation to seek an attorney general's opinion on the issue and told those present that he would not, since it would be just another attorney's opinion.

Cruse contends that Weber should have sought an attorney general's opinion. "It is just a matter of principle. Fairness in taxes should be uniform. I don't think it is just or proper to operate under two sets of rules," he said.

Commenting on the complicated procedure urban taxpayers have to go through to correct an error on their tax bills, other than leaving the Senate Bill 1790 on Homestead exemptions off the bill, Cruse said, "I don't think these people should be penalized for errors we have made. I think this is really unfair."

"If I made an error or the county made an error, we should correct it and the taxpayers should not have to pay a fee, go to Edwardsville several times, pay all of their taxes at once under protest (instead of in two installments) and go through all of this."

Errors in the Senate Bill 1790 or Homestead exemption on tax bills can be corrected in the city hall of Granite City, which simplifies that somewhat, but the taxpayer still must pay a $10 filing fee and must pay all of his taxes at once, rather than in two installments. "How many people have enough money to pay all of their taxes at once? I don't," Cruse stated.

The $10 filing fee is refunded if the taxpayer is found to be correct in his objection to the tax bill, but it is usually two to three months before the taxpayer gets his money back, Cruse added.

Another interesting question posed by Cruse is what the county will do about farm outbuildings in work force totals 220.

Mayor Schuler said industries' expertise is welcomed and their advice has been utilized, but that the emphasis now needs to be on city implementation of various recommendations.

Farmers treated

Nameoki Township, which had a negative multiplier of .302. When that was multiplied to the assessments of farm buildings, it reduced the assessments 9.1 percent, and the taxes were reduced the same percentage when applied against the lower assessment.

"If they are going to remove the multiplier for farm outbuildings in the county, they should reduce the negative multiplier for Nameoki Township and farmers should have to pay more. What's fair is fair," the assessor contended.

"If you are going to play with these multipliers, then that should be used in Nameoki, too," he added.

Wilbert Engelle, landowner and farmer in Nameoki Township, told the Press-Record Friday that farmers he has contacted, including owners of some of the largest farms and dairy farms in the Quad-City area, are not too concerned about the multiplier issue. One farmer, who owns numerous farm buildings, told Engelle he did not believe the change would affect his tax bill by $10.

No matter how much money is involved, Cruse stated, the county has set a good example with the farmers of how it can easily correct an error made in computing a tax bill. Farmers who have already paid their taxes will have the excess refunded to them, as soon as an easy method is set up, he noted.

"If the county can do it for the farmers, why can't it do the same for the urban residents? It seems like we are being penalized for living in a city instead of on a farm," Cruse concluded.

City fund growth

It was estimated that the present employees also are being pursued, but there are limits on how much the staff can be trimmed, he commented.

The mayor said several factors make it uncertain how soon additional city sales taxes could be collected but that timing is urgent.

Nolan said cash flow estimates show additional staff layoffs may be necessary if there is a delay in increasing the volume of municipal revenue.

County ok's union pact

Nine and one-half months after their previous contract expired, members of Local 799 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees have a new contract.

The Madison County board last week approved a pact which includes 30 cent per hour increases in base pay and a cost of living increase tied to changes in the Consumer Price Index.

The board also voted to authorize payment as soon as possible of all retroactive wages due from last Dec. 1.

Approval of AFSCME's contract met with mild objection from Herschel Beane, Godfrey, who said the county board had indicated in an executive session last month that it wanted a "cap" on the cost of living raises.

He asked why Herbert Milton, chairman of the negotiating committee, why the board's wishes were ignored.

Milton said the negotiating committee found itself negotiating at the end of the contract year rather than at the beginning. And the fact was that two other unions do not have a cap on cost of living in their contracts. (These unions are the Operating Engineers and the Teamsters.)

BAC program for older persons grows into $900,000 business

By KARL L. MONROE
Belleville Area College Programs and Services for Older Persons has grown into a $900,000 business, financed five ways.

The bulk of the money comes from the federal government, $568,387 according to the unaudited figures for the period July 1, 1980 to June 30, 1981. Local contributions from various sources totaled $142,817. The state of Illinois contributed $9,865 and private sources supplied $48,113.

Belleville Area College furnished $115,967. From the education fund, BAC paid $19,518 to the aging program, 100 percent of the salary of Director of Programs and Services for Older Persons Eugene Verdu $23,995, 75 percent of the salary of Associate Director of Programs and Services for Older Persons Dr. Warren Nieberg $27,787, employee benefits $94,116 and bookkeeping salaries $4,382.

The BAC building fund paid $16,025 rent expense, $15,460 custodial salary, $750 custodial benefits, and $6,190 utilities and insurance.

The report was prepared by Vice President Administrative Services Jim Hines.

The program operated seven activities. Their funding, aside from the BAC contributions, was shown:

RSVP, which recruits older people to volunteer, operates from two offices, one in Belleville, the other in Granite City. Its source of funds, other than BAC assistance, was $9,865 state, $28,330 federal, and $17,976 private.

PSOP, the "umbrella" administrative unit, received $3,311 private funding in addition to the $15,967 from BAC.

Multi-purpose, consisting of assistance with household and circuit breaker applications and other such services, received $48,370 federal funding and $8,981 private funding.

Senior nutrition, operating at nine locations, Lebanon, O'Fallon, Caseyville, Township, Dupu, Cahokia, New Athens, and three sites in Belleville, received $4,549 federal funding and $5,611 private funding.

DARTS, the senior transportation program operating in the St. Clair County townships of Belleville, Stookey and St. Clair, was funded $68,795 by local contributions and $9,008 by private funding.

Senior Aides is a very large PSOP program, dollar-wise. It was funded $25,651 by local funding, $323,508 federal funds.

Outreach, finding isolated, mainly homebound older persons, to acquaint them with services available, received $5,133 private funds.

The entire funding, including the $115,967 provided by BAC, totals $905,700. The figures do not jibe with another set prepared by Nieberg, the discrepancy undoubtedly arising from the fact that fiscal years of the seven programs do not coincide.

His figures showed federal dollars expended $447,295; local funds $839,360; private funds $109,151; state funds $3,700 and BAC funds $45,572, a total of $1,445,078.

Verdu said that state authorities have reserved Madison County nutrition services to the Madison County senior services based in Alton. Madison County Senior Services operates 18 nutrition centers, including the Troy Senior Center, Collinsville Branch Homes, and Maryville administration building.

A broadly based campaign is going on to use community development funds to build a Collinsville Senior Center. Intrigued by the question of who would administer it, an inquiry why BAC, with its heavily-funded older persons programs, did not extend them to the same portion of the Area College district; and learned the state "franchise" in the nutrition area seems to explain it.

The American Association of Retired Persons organizes its own activities.

But there is no broad-scale program of services for older persons in some areas comparable to the program provided in Belleville and environs by Belleville Area College.

Asked how BAC could have gotten so heavily into social services for older persons which are difficult to relate to its mission of higher education, BAC president Dr. Bruce Wissore gave a lengthy philosophical history which seemed to sum up that, somewhat like Topsy, each service seems like a good idea at this time, and "they just grew."

Each activity has been popular with the older people and once begun they have developed a constituency which carries them on. The news from Washington, signaling reductions in all sorts of funding for social programs, plus shrinkage of state funding for higher education, may force the college board to re-study the BAC commitment to the Programs and Services for Older Persons.

Housing pact revised; pension update coming

By ED GURNEY
The Madison County Housing Authority board last week approved a revised contract with its employees and announced proposed improvements in the employees' pension plan.

The revised contract is expected to satisfy the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development, which objected to the contract when it was first approved last April.

Executive Director Janet Harolan said the revisions involved elimination of some fringe benefit improvements. Those fringe improvements, translated into dollar figures, gave the employees a higher increase in compensation than permitted by HUD.

Most employees last spring received the maximum 10 percent raise authorized by HUD. More fringe benefits would have given employees the equivalent of more than a 10 percent increase, Harolan said.

Two negotiating sessions were held recently to work out the contract revisions. Among those attending was a representative of the employees' union, Local 525 of the Teamsters. A HUD representative also attended one of the sessions, Harolan said.

The revised contract will now be sent to HUD for its approval. It must also be ratified by the union members.

Much of the discussion about the contract at the board meeting involved union dues.

Commissioner Richard Hunter, of Glen Carbon proposed specifying the amount of union dues that can be charged to the members.

He was told the monthly dues are now $10, but that the figure is not specified in the contract. His hope was to protect the employees from big dues increases.

Budget for multipurpose gym equipment

About $1 million for site improvements and equipment for the new multipurpose gymnasium building at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville heads the capital budget priority listing for the SIU system for the 1983 fiscal year, July 1982-June 1983, newly approved by SIU trustees.

The priority listing will be submitted to the Illinois Board of Higher Education, (IBHE) as part of the Resource Allocation and Management Program (RAMP), a budgeting plan instituted by the IBHE as the first in a series of steps required to develop actual operating and capital fund requests.

The second priority on the list is Phase II of the project to replace underground electrical cables at SIU Carbondale, at a cost of $375,000, and the third priority is $522,000, in planning funds for a permanent dental education facility at the university's School of Dental Medicine in Alton.

Wagner roof repair, $157,700; No. 6; Wagner mechanical work, $349,500; No. 8; East St. Louis Center, remodel sixth floor, $942,100; No. 11; School of Dental Medicine remodeling, $135,200; No. 13; Wagner Building remodeling, $238,200; No. 15; recasted service drives in vicinity of the multipurpose building, $933,600; No. 18; and replace roofs, Rensselaer and Supporting Services buildings, $411,000; No. 23.

According to the system staff, several priority considerations were recognized in merging the requests of both universities into a single priority listing, including projects in a state of partial completion and requiring further funding; projects responding to accreditation needs; to violation of codes and to needs for public health and safety.

Also projects of an emergency nature; work providing for accessibility for the handicapped; and rehabilitation, remodeling and realignment of existing facilities, with special consideration given when preservation of the facility was a factor.

Judo at YMCA

GRANITE CITY — The Tri-City Area YMCA will hold an introductory night on Thursday, Sept. 24, for persons interested in Judo, from 6 to 7 p.m.

Judo is open to youth, ages 6 through 17, and adults. Bob Hill instructs the class, which is held on Tuesday and Thursday from 5 to 7 p.m.

The next session of Judo will begin Oct. 5. Registrations are being taken now at the YMCA, 2001 Edison Avenue, Granite City.

Swimmers start

GRANITE CITY — The Tri-City YMCA Swim Team is beginning its 1981-1982 season. The coach this year is Karen Smith, 23, a graduate of Eastern Illinois University, with a master's degree in physical education.

Smith previously swam at St. Louis County YMCA where she was swimmer of the Year in 1976. She also holds title of swimmer of the Year at Eastern for 1977, 1978 and 1979. Smith coached the Charleston swim team in 1979.

Last year the local YMCA swim team sent 20 swimmers to Illinois State Championships in Chicago, Illinois and hopes for an equally successful year this year.

Anyone interested in joining the team may contact the YMCA at 876-7200 for further information on practice times and fees.

Cagers sign

EDWARDSVILLE — Tom Pugliese, new head basketball coach at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, has signed his first recruit of the season to a national letter of intent with the Cougars. Archie Tyson, a 6'2 1/2" guard from Newark, N.J., comes to SIUE after an outstanding prep career at Weequahic High School (N.J.) and two all-star campaigns at Columbia Junior College of California.

Tyson, a two-year selection to the all-city team and a scholastic All-American while in high school, led WHS in steals and assists while finishing second in scoring and rebounding his senior year. As a senior, Tyson averaged 23 points and six rebounds per outing.

While at Columbia Junior College, Tyson posted back-to-back 100 conference honors. While regarded as one of the premier ball-handlers in the junior college ranks, Tyson, pumped in 19.7 points per game, leading the Central Valley Conference in 1981.

Following the signing, Coach Pugliese commented, "We are very pleased to have signed such a highly-regarded player as Archie. He is an outstanding competitor and has proven ability against a high caliber of basketball opponents."

GRANITE CITY — The Granite City Park District is currently accepting team applications into the 1981 baseball managers and coaches to attend the first in a series of five baseball rule revision meetings to be held at the Nameoki Recreation Center. The first meeting is scheduled for Sept. 24 at 7 p.m.

All interested parties are urged to attend, a spokesman said. The remaining meetings are slated for Oct. 8, Oct. 29, Nov. 19, and Dec. 10. All remaining meetings will be held at the Nameoki Recreation Center at 7 p.m.

South Homecoming Week activities

The Granite City High School South Homecoming Week will be held from Monday, Oct. 5, through Friday, Oct. 9.

The theme is "Warriors Stomp Stealers," and events will begin with a pep rally bonfire near the football field to get the student body in the proper frame of mind, in keeping with the theme.

The popular play "Bye Bye Birdie" will be presented on both Wednesday and Thursday evening, Oct. 7 and 8, under the direction of Ron Pennell.

Following the play, on both nights, will be the formal presentation of the Homecoming Queen, Escort and the Court.

Friday afternoon, Oct. 9, about 2:30 p.m. will include a Homecoming parade, with traditional floats prior to the big football game with the Granite City High School North Steelers.

The South vs. North game will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Memorial Stadium on Fehling Road, behind the South campus.

One spokesman for South said, "Save your confederate money, as South will rise again."

Regardless of the grid contest outcome the Homecoming dance will be held directly after the game in the South cafeteria.

Admission to the dance is $1.50 and music will be by "Jay Berry."

Seek funding for Nameoki sewers

Sanitary sewers for State Park Place, Eagle Park Acres, East Madison the Cloverleaf Subdivision of Nameoki Township may be possible if legislation passed by Congress nearly a quarter of a century ago is still in effect.

Harry Briggs, supervisor of Nameoki Township, said at the town board's regular meeting last week that he has sent a letter to U.S. Senator Alan J. Dixon asking him to research whether special legislation passed by Congress about 25 years ago is still in effect, providing $10 million for sanitary sewers in economically depressed areas.

The legislation, passed for the Kinloch, Mo., provided for the federal government to pay 90 percent of the cost of installing the sewers while the local area paid only 10 percent. Briggs said that if 90 percent funding is available for depressed areas, he feels the township could sell revenue bonds for the remaining 10 percent of the construction cost and repay the bonds through user fees.

"Revenue bonds wouldn't be a burden on the people like the general obligation bonds used for the Four Township Sewers. The people in State Park Place, Cloverleaf, Eagle Park and East Madison need it really badly. It is a shame when I drive through and see what they have to live with. I hope we can get sewers for them," Briggs said.

In other business last week, the township passed a resolution to send to governor asking him to sign a bill which would allow township assessors to obtain a duplicate set of assessment books early to speed their assessments and eliminate delays caused by waiting for the county's Board of Review action. Madison County assessor a similar resolution last month.

Highway Commissioner Frank Melnick said he has sent a letter to Lester Miller, county superintendent of highways, asking him to apply for a Federal Aid to Urban Systems (FAUS) 70-30 percent grant for permanent blacktopping of streets which qualify in the township. Miller will prepare an application for the committee which distributes the grant funds.

The board granted permission for the township to purchase a three-inch pump for water removal from roads, ditches and fields, when needed. The township's Board of Health had authorized the purchase two weeks ago. The pump is to be purchased for $831 from Brettman Supply Co., St. Louis.

Briggs said the purchase is being made without competitive bidding, because Brettman is the area's distributor of the type of pump the township has been borrowing from S.M. Wilson & Co. in flooding situations and has proved to have very low maintenance costs.

The board approved $50 a month raises for the township's secretaries in the township office, Shirley Denson, Dee Sloyanoff and Virginia Biggs.

The trustees also decided to increase the expense allowance for the town inspector, Lester Kraft, by $50 a month to compensate for rising fuel and maintenance costs. His salary and expenses now total $3,600 a year and will rise to $4,200 a year.

GETTING INVITATIONS ready to mail for the Fall Fun Festival and Auction at the Specialized Living Center, 1450 Caseyville Ave., Swansea, is Paula Baker of Granite City, seated, assisted by her teacher, Linda Hibbler of East St. Louis.

Auction, carnival to benefit center

Parents and Friends of the Specialized Living Center, located at 1450 Caseyville Ave., Swansea, will sponsor a Fall Fun Festival and Auction at the center, with the carnival beginning at 10 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 26. The public is invited to attend.

Several handicapped youngsters from the Quad-Cities are at the living center.

Parents of the local young people are involved in organizing the festival and are requesting donated items from area residents to be auctioned at the event.

Persons willing to donate new or used items, with the exception of clothing, are asked to call 931-3990 for pickup service.

All proceeds from the auction will be used to benefit the youthful residents of the facility, it was stated.

The Specialized Living Center is a relatively new concept, and currently houses 100 residents.

Many of the young people have physical handicaps, as well as being severely retarded.

Further information may be obtained by calling the number listed above.

Gets post in veteran affairs department

Governor James R. Thompson has appointed Thomas R. Jones as assistant director of the Department of Veterans Affairs.

"The needs and concerns of our veterans must be responded to in today's society," Thompson said. "Tom Jones has the ability and the background to meet the increasing rehabilitative and health care needs of Illinois veterans."

Jones, 36, served in the United States Navy from 1964 to 1971 and was awarded the Purple Heart for wounds suffered in Vietnam as a Senior Corporal. He also received the Presidential Unit Citation award, the Gold Coast Medal and the Vietnam Combat Ribbon.

Jones is currently Intergovernmental Affairs Officer in the Department of Public Health, a post he has held since January, 1980.

Before that Jones worked as Project Director for the St. Francis Hospital-Medical Center in Peoria. He also has been Vice President for marketing and enrollment for the Master Health Care Plan in Peoria, and was Regional Emergency Medical Services Supervisor for the Department of Public Health.

Jones is married and has two children. He resides in Springfield. His salary will be $37,000 and his appointment requires Senate confirmation.

AUTO FACTS

Trying to identify car troubles? You will find that many symptoms are immediately visible. On the other hand you may notice strange sounds and/or noises. You can also sometimes identify a problem by the way the car handles. If you are in fact, suspect of a problem, take it to a reputable service facility. Before having the repair work, ask the technician to inspect the condition of all parts in the system. Replacing a badly worn part without checking other related parts is often poor economy. In the case of brakes or steering, it may provide a false sense of security and endanger safety. On the other hand, every part in the system does not necessarily have to be replaced simply because one or two parts are worn.

Nowadays there are numerous books on the market advising us on how to take care of our car and save money. However some jobs are more complicated and that's when BIG 4 CHEVROLET COMPANY can help you. Our GM trained personnel receive up-to-date training several times a year so you know you will receive the newest and most modern service possible for your car. We're open Monday thru Friday 7-6 and you may call 345-5444 or visit 1820 Vandalla Street in Collinsville. We welcome all major credit cards.

AUTO TIP
Determine the repair alternatives first; then make a decision as to the work that will have to be done.

'Operation Lifesaver' being launched in area

Area police departments, in cooperation with the Illinois Railroad Grade Crossing Safety Council, are launching "Operation Lifesaver" in the Quad-City area.

From 1955 to 1980 over 2,900 motorists and pedestrians lost their lives at railroad grade crossings in Illinois. Additionally, thousands of injuries occurred and property damage has been a multi-million dollar loss.

Coordinating "Operation Lifesaver," in this area is Fred Greening, captain of police, Chicago and North Western Transportation Company.

Films, speakers and literature for both adult and youth groups, such as service clubs, fraternal organizations and schools are available.

Organizations wishing a program may contact Capt. Greening by writing to: Box 87, Madison, Ill., 62600; or telephoning him at 478-6118.

In 1976 the Illinois Railroad Grade Crossing Safety Council was formed to combat this traffic problem.

"Operation Lifesaver" is divided into a "3-E" effort:

education of the driving public about the dangers that exist at railroad grade crossings; enforcement of existing traffic laws governing grade crossings; engineering grade crossings to provide the greatest safety for both motorist and train crew.

State agencies are continuing to use available state and federal funds joined by local and railroad dollars to sustain signal installations, crossing improvements, and grade separations to provide greater safety and convenience to the public.

However, the fact that 70 percent of the accidents are occurring at crossings with active warning devices indicates that more than crossing devices are required to stop the needless loss of life, injuries and property damage, according to Capt. Greening.

"Adults driving autos, and children, must learn and be aware of dangers. We think we have a variety of programs, geared to different age levels that will help get the message across," Greening said.

GCHS South band holds preview

Granite City High School South Marching Band presented its annual Parent's Night Preview on the football field of the pre-game and half-time shows last week. They will perform at South's home football games this season.

The presentation also included performances by the Dixie Dolls Pom Squad and the Warrior Flag Squad. The performance was attended by a large number of parents and family members.

Harry Chronister said grace before a pot luck supper served by the South Band Parents Association held in the cafeteria immediately following the performance.

Approximately 250 family members of the marching units enjoyed the meal.

Owen Ross, president of the South Band Parents Assoc., held a brief business meeting following the dinner. Ross outlined the various projects the band parents sponsor for the band throughout the year.

He announced the band is awaiting shipment of the new marching uniforms the Band Parents Assoc. have purchased and pictures of the new uniform were displayed during the evening.

Band Parent board members introduced were: Bertha Millianis, vice-president; Janis Smith, treasurer; Dorothy Kohl, secretary; Pat Ellis, historian; Lou Passig, past president; and George Hlava, member at large.

Officers of a newly formed parents group sponsoring the Dixie Dolls were introduced. They are President Sharon Aleksandrian, Vice-President Marge Pennell, Secretary Janet Smith, Treasurer Charles Shanks, and Ways and Means Chairman Marilyn Bodman.

Joseph Owens, band director, reported on the progress of the band and outlined goals and plans for the coming year.

The next Band Parent meeting will be held Tuesday, Oct. 19 in the band room at South at 7:30 p.m.

WE CAN MAKE JOHNNY INTO A FISH!

We've been giving swim lessons for decades. And, we know how better than anyone. Our instructors receive special YMCA training.

If you haven't sent your child to the "Y" for swim lessons, DO IT NOW! Before he or she loses the urge. You'll be glad you helped to make your child "water-proof."

Classes are starting October 5, 1981. WE'RE HERE TO HELP YOU!
